TWO MORE BODIES, AKRON FLIGHT LOG GIVEN UP BY SEA

Tug Reports Possible Location of Main Body of Wreckage of Giant Airship About 8 Miles Off Barnegat Light.

LIEUTENANT'S BOOK TELLS OF LAST TRIP

Commander McCord, Chief Officer of Ship, and Lakehurst Commandant Are Found.

ABOARD U. S. S. PORTLAND OFF NEW JERSEY COAST, April 9.—(UP)—The bodies of Commander Fred T. Berry, commandant of the Lakehurst naval air station and of Commander Frank C. McCord, master of the dirigible Akron when it was wrecked last Tuesday, were recovered at sea today.

Both were found about eight miles from the spot off Barnegat light, where the Akron went down, by the destroyer Tucker and were taken to Atlantic City, N. J., for transfer to Lakehurst.

Commander Berry's body was found first. It was the third of the 73 lost in the Akron wreck to be recovered.

Of great importance to the investigation of the disaster was discovery by the navy tug Owl this morning of an officer's coat containing a notebook with a record of numerous events of the Akron's last trip. It recorded details of the departure from Lakehurst, maneuvering of ballast prior to the crash and other important notations.

The jacket bore the name of Lieutenant (J. G.) Dugan.

The record was placed on a coast guard plane and sent to Lakehurst immediately for examination and for use in the investigation.

Another bit of wreckage was picked up today in the form of an aluminum floorboard, believed to have been broken from one of the Akron's fins.

The sea was calm throughout the day and many cutters and other patrol boats were able to carry on the search, cruising backward and forward over the area around the spot where the Akron went down.

The tug Sagamore reported it had come in contact with some submerged object where the Akron was wrecked and plans were made to send down divers for an examination of it tomorrow if further investigations warrant.

Captain Leary, commanding the base ship U. S. S. Portland, today asked for additional coast guard craft to join the search tomorrow, believing that additional bodies may soon be recovered.

NAVY COURT OF INQUIRY MEETS FOR PROBE TODAY

LAKEHURST, N. J., April 9.—(AP)—In the gas cell shop where outer fabric replacements were being prepared for the U. S. S. Akron when the huge dirigible met destruction, a navy court of inquiry meets tomorrow to investigate the greatest disaster in the history of lighter-than-air craft.

The court formally approved today

Death in Electric Chair Scottsboro Case Verdict

First of Retrials Results as Did Original Hearing; Defense Counsel Charges Bigotry; To Continue Fight.

By T. M. DAVENPORT.

DECATUR, Ala., April 9.—(AP)—On the second anniversary of his first sentence to death, Heywood Patterson, first of nine negroes indicted in the Scottsboro attack case to face a new trial, today heard a jury return a verdict of guilty and set the penalty as death.

With head bowed, Patterson, showing nervousness for the first time, heard Judge James E. Horton in Morgan circuit court read the verdict reached by a jury after 21 hours of deliberation.

"We the jury find the defendant guilty as charged and fix his punishment at death," read the verdict handed to Judge Horton and the first of the new trials granted seven of the negroes by the United States supreme court had ended.

Less than 100 persons were in the courtroom as the verdict was returned and it was greeted with silence, broken only by the rush of messengers to telegraph offices to send dispatches.

It was just two years ago today that Judge Alfred E. Hawkins in Jackson circuit court at Scottsboro pronounced sentence of death on Patterson and seven of his companions. They were convicted of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price and Ruby Bates, of Huntsville, aboard a Southern railway freight train as it rumbled through the Sand mountains in Jackson county.

"I think the verdict was a miscarriage of justice," Samuel S. Leibowitz, of New York, chief counsel for the defendant said.

"I don't," replied Attorney-General Thomas E. Knight Jr., who directed the prosecution.

In a statement after the verdict was announced Leibowitz said the fight has just begun.

His statement follows:

"This verdict is an act of bigots, spitting upon the tomb of the immortal Abraham Lincoln.

"We would have been more than delighted to have left it in the hands of Judge Horton but it is a pity the law prevented that. We will fight with every drop of blood in our veins to free these men, because they are innocent, as every reasonable human being that sat in the courtroom hearing the evidence must have felt. It is only a pity that amid these beautiful surroundings and glorious country, where there is on every hand hospitality and courtesy such race hatred and bigotry should live. I think the prosecutor of this county (Solicitor Wade Wright) when he resorted in his bombast to the mud gutter in hurling vilification on the great people of New York and its vast body of Jewish citizens, perhaps represented in his way a cross section of what the defendants and lawyers representing them were faced with."

George W. Chamlee Sr., of Chattanooga, one of the first attorneys employed by the International Labor Defense in behalf of the negroes after they were convicted, said: "I still have an abiding faith in the good citizens of Alabama and I am coming back for another trial."

There have been reports that Leibowitz would not return for the other trials and today he said he would not know until after he had returned to New York. He entered the case at the invitation of the I. L. D., but stipulated that he would receive no

WORLD MOVEMENT TO REVIVE TRADE GATHERS FORCE

Leaders Rally Behind Roosevelt in Concerted Effort To Break Shackles of Commerce.

By F. G VOSBURGH.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Behind the leadership of President Roosevelt, a world movement for cooperation in striking off the shackles of trade tonight was viewed here as fast gathering momentum.

Officials plainly were pleased at definite word that former Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, as well as Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, soon would come here in person to talk over ways and means of revivifying the world economic machine.

Favorable reactions among the nine other nations invited to send their leading statesman increased the prospect that many of the world's great would beat a path to the White House door within the next few weeks.

As the whole broad project took on more definite form, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States expressed its hope that the government's tariff policy would "hold fast to a principle of reasonable protection."

Letter to Hull.

Its views were stated in a letter addressed by Henry I. Harriman, president, to Secretary of State Hull, who asserted only yesterday that the United States in the last 10 or 12 years had been a ring-leader in the direction of "economic nationalism" featured by high tariffs.

The letter set forth what was described as "an American business viewpoint" on subjects listed for consideration at the world monetary and economic conference to open in London about June 15. It is in preparation for this conference that President Roosevelt has invited the world leaders to Washington.

"It is hoped that in the world conference discussions," Harriman said, "our delegates would hold fast to a principle of reasonable protection with adequate provisions for meeting unfair competition such as dumping, convict labor and depreciated currencies, and, further, with such provisions for expert adjustment of tariff rates as would tend to remove tariffs from the plane of purely political considerations."

As to war debts, the chamber pointed to a recent referendum in which its membership expressed the view that any modification of existing settlements "should be conditioned upon definite provisions for such treatment of our foreign trade by the debtor country as will assure access of American goods to its markets on fair competitive terms."

Postponement Favored.

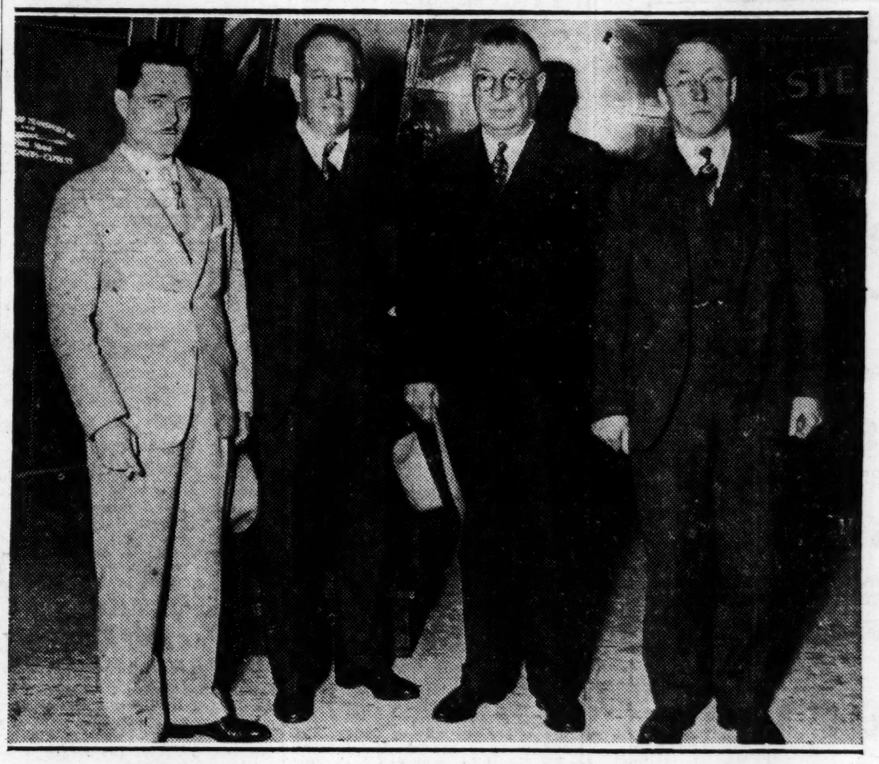

It favored temporary postponement of payments in the cases of countries unable to meet them and advocated that any modification of an existing debt agreement should be conditioned upon reductions in expenditures for armament.

At the state department it was not certain how many of the 11 nations invited to send special representatives would do so. Yet to be heard from officially were Germany, Italy, Japan, China, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico and Canada.

Thus far those definitely scheduled to come include only MacDonald, sailing April 15, and Herriot, who probably will leave Europe about four days later.

While officials would not comment publicly until they had formal confirmation of press reports that Herriot was coming, his designation was characterized privately as a happy one. Because of his advocacy of payment of the December 15 debt installment, the issue on which his cabinet fell.

E. A. T. to Cut Air Time to New York; Union With General Motors Assured

Prominent aviation officials who did the 230 air-line miles from Savannah to Atlanta in little more than an hour and a half Sunday afternoon in a new model Condor plane of Eastern Air Transport, Inc., are shown above. They are, from left to right: E. R. Breech, general assistant treasurer of General Motors, in charge of aviation; Captain Thomas B. Doe, president of E. A. T.; Harris M. Hanshue, president of Western Air Express, and Richard W. Robbins, president of Transcontinental and Western Air. Staff photo by George Cornett.

Installation of a new type of Condor plane about June 1 on the lines of Eastern Air Transport, Inc., will bring New York at least two hours nearer to Atlanta, Captain Thomas B. Doe, president of E. A. T., announced Sunday on arrival here with a party of guests on an inspection trip in one of the new planes.

Five ships, capable of 145 miles an hour cruising speed as compared with the 118 miles an hour of the present E. A. T. ships, are being prepared, Captain Doe said. Eastern Air Transport will gain important transcontinental allies under the plan of reorganization which is to bring a number of aviation companies under General Motors, he said.

Plans for the reorganization were discussed here by Captain Doe and E. R. Breech, general assistant treasurer of General Motors in charge of aviation. The merger will be voted on April 26 by the respective stockholders, and, according to Atlanta's visitors, sufficient votes are assured to predict success of the plan.

Companies involved in the proposed consolidation are General Aviation Corporation, North American Aviation, Inc., Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc. (formed by Western Air Express and Transcontinental Air Transport), Eastern Air Transport (owned by North American), Douglas Aircraft Company, Inc. (25 per cent interest), General Aviation Manufacturing Company, and B-J Aircraft Corporation.

General Motors will control the merged companies through General Aviation Corporation. The new com-

FINAL VOTES NEAR ON FARM MEASURE AND DIRECT RELIEF

President Soon To Conclude Emergency Domestic Program With Proposal for Extensive Public Works Expansion.

RAILROAD PLANS TO BE HEARD TODAY

June 1 Set by Leaders as Latest Date for Adjournment of Extraordinary Session.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and congress will seek a combination this week to put the new national emergency program far along its way with prime consideration to more jobs coupled with railroad and home-owner relief.

The president will send to Capitol Hill tomorrow his plan for a broad development of the Tennessee valley and the restoration of the Muscle Shoals (Alabama) power and nitrate plant.

He will follow this with a proposal for cutting the debt burden on small home-owners and a recommendation to reorganize the $11,000,000,000 railroad industry on a paying basis.

Congressional leaders expect to send to the White House before the week-end the measure for farm relief and agricultural refinancing and also the $500,000,000 direct unemployment aid bill.

Carefully watching the national budget, Mr. Roosevelt will conclude shortly his domestic program with a proposal for public works construction totaling $2,000,000,000 or $3,000,000,000.

He then will size up the income and outgo of the government and seek to reorganize the federal machinery sufficiently to provide a balanced budget. Every effort will be made to bring this about through rigid economy. No decision has been reached on the necessity for new taxes. At all costs, however, a balanced budget is insisted upon.

Meanwhile, the president is speeding the administration of banking and reforestation measures already enacted. Robert Fechner, the director of the conservation corps, expressed disappointment today at progress in putting men into the forests and called for full speed to get 250,000 in the camps by mid-May.

Probably tomorrow, another Roosevelt-favored bill—banking reform with provision for insurance of deposits—will be introduced by Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, and Chairman Steagall, of the house banking committee.

An early showdown is due in the senate on the farm commodity measure, with the republicans apparently doomed to defeat on a substitute eliminating the proposed granting of wide

CHINESE THREATEN TO RETAKE CITIES

Manchukuoans Forced From Chinwangtao; Shanhaikwan Imperiled.

TIENTSIN, China, April 9.—(AP)—The Japanese, allegedly seeking to oust the Chinese from the area east of the Lwan river, appeared today to have struck unexpected opposition.

(Chinese commanders last week said they had received Japanese demands that the Chinese evacuate the entire area south of the Great Wall as far as the Lwan river. At the same time the Japanese war office disclaimed responsibility for the advance on Chinwangtao, seaport 10 miles southwest of Shanhaikwan, by Manchukuoan forces.)

The Chinese not only retained Chinwangtao, according to official foreign advices, but have driven back the Manchukuoan army from Hiayang and Liukang, forcing them to throw up defense lines at Shihmenchai seeking to halt the Chinese ad-

GERMAN REVOLT URGED IN MOSCOW

Communists Appeal to Labor To Overthrow Hitler by Force.

MOSCOW, April 9.—(AP)—The communist internationale today appealed to the German laboring masses to overthrow the Hitler government by an armed revolt and establish in its stead a dictatorship of the proletariat.

The appeal was in a statement issued by the presidium of the communist internationale's executive committee which was published in the newspaper Pravda.

It called on the German communist party to warn the masses that "Hitler's government is leading the country to catastrophe and the only possibility for the laboring class to prevent their further impoverishment and misery is through a proletarian revolution and a dictatorship of the proletariat."

Urging the formation of a uniform front between social democrats and communists against the German bourgeoise, the manifesto instructed German communists to strengthen their party so as "to prepare the masses for decisive revolutionary battles and to overthrow capitalism and fascist dictatorship by means of an armed revolt."

The presidium gave its formal approval to the German communist party's leadership and its activities thus far.

Schacht and Norman Confer in Germany

BADENWEILER, Germany, April 9.—(AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German reichsbank, and Montagu C. Norman, governor of the Bank of England, met here Friday and Saturday and discussed the international financial situation and currency and credit problems. The conversations were understood to have paved the way for closer co-operation between the Bank of England and the reichsbank.

Grand Jury To Study Lindbergh Plot Today

MIAMI, Fla., April 9.—(AP)—A federal grand jury meeting here tomorrow will consider the case of Gilford Clobridge, arrested recently by federal authorities and charged with attempting to extort $50,000 from Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

Clobridge contended a letter he sent to Lindbergh demanding $50,000 "or you know what will happen" was merely a plan to "get even" with his estranged wife and her family. The initials "L B" which he signed to the letter were initials of his sister-in-law, Clobridge said.

The letter was turned over to New Jersey state police and then placed in the hands of federal postoffice inspectors. They traced it to Clobridge here and arrested him.

HERRIOT AGREES TO DISCUSS DEBTS

Champion of Payment Will Be French Spokesman at Washington.

PARIS, April 9.—(AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, a stalwart champion of payment of the defaulted $19,000,000 war debts interest due to the United States last December 15, will represent France at the conversations in Washington with President Roosevelt in the capacity of a "fact finder" particularly interested in the question of debts.

He definitely announced his acceptance of the mission while spending the week-end at Lyons. His decision was made known after he had talked with Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour, who telephoned him concerning the official American invitation for France to participate in the Washington conference.

It was semi-officially stated that M. Herriot, who is the chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies, will go not to make engagements for France, but to discuss at first hand with Mr. Roosevelt problems of interest to the two countries, and particularly intergovernmental debts. On the basis of this information he will report to his government, which then will be in a position to make decisions.

The suddenness of Mr. Herriot's official acceptance and the restricted character of his mission was believed to have made unnecessary any further decision by the cabinet as to whether he should go.

It was reported that the former premier may accompany Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain, to America, but it was thought more likely he would sail on the Ile de France April 19. (Premier MacDonald is planning to sail for the United States April 15.)

Except for the extreme nationalist

2 More Black Leopards Born at Candler's Zoo

Two baby black Sumatra leopards wailed their first greetings to the world at the Candler Zoo Sunday afternoon, seemingly ready to face the world and battle for life in the northern clime which is so difficult for delicate cats of the jungle. Fletcher Reynolds, curator of the zoo, made the announcement after he had heard the cries of the kittens from the fastness of the mother's retreat.

The two kittens, worth thousands of dollars if they live to maturity, will revive the interest caused by the arrival of twins to Nora, the Samatran leopard mother, several months ago, and who died after three weeks of existence. Because of the excitability of black leopards, no one—not even the curator—may view the cubs for two weeks.

BEER TAXES AID NINETEEN STATES

By G. C. SPENCER.

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—Revenue from beer is expected to aid substantially the balancing of budgets in the 19 states where the new 3.2 per cent brew is legal as well as others where it is to be legalized soon.

A survey of the states today showed that most of the 19 already are taxing beer. Some have left the levies entirely to local governmental bodies while in others the matter of taxation is still unsettled.

The status of beer taxes other than federal follows:

Rhode Island—One dollar per barrel of 31 gallons.

Vermont—One dollar per barrel of

SENATE ROW SEEN ON FIVE-DAY WEEK

Future of Bill Remains in Doubt as Administration Is Silent.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—With administration chieftains wrapped in study today over the senate-approved 30-hour week bill, that controverted measure faced an uncertain future with its fate apparently resting upon the decision of President Roosevelt and his advisers.

The administration attitude will be revealed this week, probably through Secretary Perkins, of the labor department, who was given the assignment by President Roosevelt to look over the legislation.

Because of the hesitancy of the chief executive and his advisers in giving immediate approval, it was believed in some quarters that modifications, at least, will be proposed.

Speaker Rainey, who says "there is dynamite" in the bill in its present form, is holding up house consideration awaiting the White House report.

The controversy will be revived in the senate tomorrow when Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, moves to block reconsideration which was demanded by Senator Trammell, democrat, Florida.

The Alabaman reiterated his belief today that the motion to reconsider would be defeated. It was entered Friday by Trammell with the statement that foreign articles should be brought under the bill's interstate commerce on domestic goods pro-

3.2 'Suds' Will Arrive Today, Two Atlanta 'Leggers Admit

Three point two beer will be rolling into Atlanta today and at least two of the better known bootleggers are going to dispense it, they admitted Sunday.

And it's coming from old Kaintuck, the 'leggers explained. Fast automobiles might have brought it in Sunday but emissaries from the dry areas had to stand in line and wait until the local wet demands were met.

One of the liquor dispensers who admitted that he was going to peddle the stuff, and who boasted that his clients included the elite of the city, adorned his declaration with what was intended to be a jibe at those opposing a special legislative session to legalize the sale and manufacture of beer.

"I'm one of those booticians," he said, "who favors the sale of beer. If the governor will call the special session and the lawmakers will legalize the stuff, I'll go into an honest business. So long as he won't, I'm going to keep pace with the racket until my children have finished school."

The price? That's the rub. One of a number of booticians said for Atlantans it would be based on a "living profit." There will be, of course, the transportation cost from Kentucky, not a minor item, and to this will be added the premium which the bootleggers assess against their patrons to protect them against the 18th amendment and such.

As Atlanta made ready for the unofficial reception to 3.2 suds today, the ministers generally were silent on the subject. One of the better known prelates, asked if he discussed beer in his Sunday sermon, said:

"No, not a word about it. But, of course, you know the position of the Methodist church on the subject."

Woman Loses Use of Nerve Centers For Breathing, Lives in Respirator

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Caroline La Plante—who for days has been unable to breathe outside a respirator except at the spoken command of her doctor—tonight was regaining use of the involuntary nerve centers that direct normal respiration.

The strange case has attracted several doctors to Frances Willard hospital, where she is a patient and the malady, doctors said, had few parallels in medical history.

Mrs. La Plante, young mother of two chidlren "forgot" how to breathe, they said. Medically speaking, her physician, Dr. Leon Erenberg, explained, functions of involuntary nerve centers controlling unconscious breathing were impaired. The condition arose as a complication of another disease.

While Mrs. La Plante was under treatment for the other malady, she suddenly stopped breathing. She was rushed to a respirator—"the iron lung"—and automatically she was forced to breathe. For the last 10 days her life has been dependent upon the machine.

"Normally we breathe without be-

Rickenbacker, Ace of Aces, Opposes Air Force Fund Cut

Hope that the army and navy air forces will not suffer in the $200,000,000 cut ordered in army-navy appropriations was voiced Sunday by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, famous American ace in the World war, who is visiting Atlanta with a party of aviation company officials. "Our air service is our best insurance against war," he said.

Captain Rickenbacker said that "Europe is a keg of powder and it liable to go off at any time. The present situation is more dangerous than it was in 1914, and our air service is the last place we should cut. The next war, if we have one, will be deadly in the air, but we can find some consolation in our highly organized commercial transportation system, which is keeping up with the progress being made by technicians and engineers in highly skilled groups."

In discussing "our defense insurance from the standpoint of commercial transportation," Captain Rickenbacker said that "we have plants open in strategic locations, and keep the manufacturing personnel up to date and up to a high standard. We keep our pilot organization of several thousand men up to the minute in the science of flying, and keep a highly organized ground personnel of 100,000. Then, we have a couple of thousand airports for use in emergency, and a well developed meterological service, as well as radio experts who are constantly developing the science."

Captain Rickenbacker said that "the fastest thing I had in the war was a Spad, capable of 135 miles an hour, and today there are planes which will do 400 in speed tests and we are on the way to 500 or better. A great handicap in the war was the problem

CHARLES B. ELLIS, 40, PASSES AT HOME HERE

Well-Known Atlantan Was Connected With R. K. O. Corporation Here.

Charles B. Ellis, 40, well-known Atlantan, died Sunday night at his residence at 2788 Peachtree road. Mr. Ellis was connected with the R. K. O. Distributing Corporation here.

Born in Troy, Ala., Mr. Ellis attended college at the University of Colorado, where he was a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He was a veteran of the World war and was attached to a medical corps.

For many years he was manager of the R. K. O. branch in Jacksonville, Fla., from which city he removed to Atlanta four years ago.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Jean Ellis; his mother, Mrs. H. T. Ellis, of Troy, Ala.; and three sisters, Miss Belle Ellis, of Troy; Mrs. W. C. Smith, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Louise Cawthorn, of Savannah. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Movie Moguls Meet To Attack Problems

HOLLYWOOD, April 9.—(AP)—Motion picture executives gathered here today for the first of a series of conferences through which they hoped to stabilize the industry and balance the budget.

"The board purpose is to discuss fully such industry policies as are necessary for the stability of the industry," said Will H. Hays, president of the motion picture producers and distributors. "The exchange of views as to the needs of production on one hand and the imperative requirements of economy in all branches on the other hand, should clarify many of these problems."

Hays, denying the association plans a new wage cut, said this is an annual meeting and not different from that of any previous year except that perhaps a wider range of subjects is to be reviewed.

Hope for Paralysis Victims Offered in X-Ray Discovery

Curvature of Spine Is Much More Quickly Detected by New Method of Examination.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—An X-ray discovery of curvature of the spine, offering hope of straighter bodies for thousands of child infantile paralysis sufferers, was announced tonight by the information bureau of the United Hospital Fund of New York.

The rays, by a new technique, show the time of onset of curvature, even before the eye can detect it. They reveal the start much earlier than its inception had been believed. They have resulted in new devices to curb lateral curvature before it gets serious.

So gradual is this onset that an ordinary X-ray of the spine fails to show its beginning. But by taking two X-rays, one with the child bending to the left and the other to the right, a loss of flexibility on one side can be seen. This is the first curvature symptom.

It is found that this curvature may begin while the child is still resting in bed, and may be of rapid progress during this resting position. The practice has been to wait for youngsters to be up and about before expecting signs of lateral curvature. The theory was that support of the body weight in upright position precipitated the curvature.

The contrary findings were made at the New York orthopedic dispensary and hospital during an intensive study of boys and girls stricken in the 1931 outbreak. Of 350 children treated, 44 seriously affected remained in wards many months.

Several differences in the effects of this outbreak contrasting with previous ones were noted. One was a "surprisingly high incidence" of lateral curvature of the spine. More than 40 per cent of the group of 44 developed curvature.

"A trial is now being made," the announcement states, "of treating these patients as soon as accurate information is had of the presence of a curve, by applying a plaster jacket with the spine bent over in the opposite direction. This over-corrects the curve and rests weakened muscles. In many cases muscles that at first seem completely paralyzed, if properly protected and rested, recover some or all of their power. It is hoped that in some of these cases curvature may be cured in this simple way.

"For those whose muscles do not recover and whose curvature is progressive and permanent, a method of treatment has been developed at the New York orthopedic dispensary and hospital of first correcting the curvature, either partially or wholly. This is done by a special plaster jacket with hinges in front and back, thus allowing the jacket to be bent to one side at the site of the curve in such a way as to straighten it.

"It has proved more effective than any other means previously used to straighten a lateral curve of the spine."

In these more severe cases, once a spine is straightened in the jacket an operation is performed which makes a permanently straight spine by causing the back part of the vertebrae to grow together.

DAIRY COWS TAUGHT TO OBEY ORDERS OF TRAFFIC LIGHTS

PLAINSBORO, N. J., April 9.—(UP)—More than 1,500 cows are being taught to respond to red and green traffic lights in a large dairy here, it became known today.

The lights are not being used to teach the cattle to cross streets safely, but to guide their progress in approaching a new marvel of the dairy industry—the rotolactor.

This device washes, drys, disinfects and milks 240 cows an hour. It is a circular metal platform, 60 feet in diameter, and holds 50 cows at a time. The cows enter the milking line three times a day, and, heretofore, it has been necessary to have men hold them back until their turn came to mount the machine. This function now is being accomplished through the use of the signal lights, and officials of the dairy say the cows respond rapidly once they have become acquainted with the idea.

SPRING SNOWSTORM SWEEPING COLORADO

DENVER, April 9.—(AP)—A heavy spring snowstorm swirled in on Colorado from the north today, depositing tons of moisture on dry farm lands. By nightfall Denver streets were ankle deep with slush.

Motorists drove with difficulty as the wet snow coated windshields. A hard north wind pasted the snow on shrubs and trees. From the northern Colorado line the storm swept toward Colorado Springs and Pueblo, adding to a depleted water supply.

Snow varying in depth from three to five inches covered Cheyenne and much of southern Wyoming.

Temperatures were about normal.

REECE ASKS SOLONS TO PROBE BOND CASE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 9.—(AP)—A legislative investigation of the alleged theft of $100,000 of bonds, in connection with which Joseph I. Reece, former commissioner of insurance and banking, has been indicted, was asked today by Reece.

In an open letter addressed to Senate Speaker A. F. Officer, Reece requested that a joint committee be appointed to conduct "a full investigation of the entire situation."

A Bucket o' Suds, Please.

The Constitution has a linotype operator for whom writing poetry takes no more effort than shooting fish in a bath tub. Eugene Sligh is the name. News events are his meat.

His latest, of nine verses, is anent the beer situation in the Empire State of the South. Seven of the verses follow:

"In our neighbor states—the Carolines,
And down in Florida, too,
Lawmakers did as they were told,
And now they'll have their brew.

Around us beer will be legal,
And the cup that cheers will flow,
From mountain passes of Tennessee
To the Gulf of Mexico.

But down in dear old Georgia,
Our disappointment is very great,
Long-haired reformers and grafters,
Have decreed a bone-dry state.

Here in the capital city
Our so-called solons met:
For seventy days they voted dry,
For seventy days guzzled wet.

They campaigned all last summer,
On the platform of their party's choice,
But when they got to Atlanta,
Gave no heed to the people's voice.

They dickered and they dallied,
And let important measures lag;
But thanks to old Gene Talmadge,
We got a three-dollar tag.

Now maybe Mr. Roosevelt
To move Warm Springs will try;
For, if he leaves them here in Georgia,
They'll surely vote them dry."

Irony.

During the general assembly's session, boys carrying huge banners crying, "What! No Beer," advertising a movie by that name, paraded around the state capitol the day the beer bill was tabled. We never cared much for irony though.

Postscript.

Atlanta newsboys cried "Root beer for Georgia" on Friday . . . truck bearing "Let's Go Atlanta" sign was seen being towed through the street . . . W. A. Dobson, Boy Scout executive, is 37 years young and the boys gave him a surprise dinner . . . for publication he says he's 27, but the boys say to them he is 17 . . . congratulations.

USED AUTO PARTS MEN FORM NEW ASSOCIATION

Formation of the Used Auto Parts Association of Georgia was consummated last week and plans were made to hold the next meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday night at the Henry Grady hotel.

Organized to protect both dealers and consumers of used parts for various makes of automobiles, the association expects to save the public many thousands of dollars. F. Taffel was elected president; S. Carp, vice president; L. Osteen, treasurer, and I. Verner, secretary.

MRS. MINNIE STOKES PASSES IN MANSFIELD

Mrs. Minnie Dickerson Stokes, 64, died at her home in Mansfield, Ga., Sunday. She is survived by her daughter, Miss Lois Stokes, of Mansfield, and four sons, Thomas, Elwood and Charles, of Atlanta, and Luther Stokes, of Oklahoma City, Okla.

Funeral services will be held at Carmel church, in Mansfield, at 3 o'clock, eastern standard time, this afternoon. The Rev. L. M. Davidson will officiate.

CIVIC BODY OPPOSES SOVIET RECOGNITION

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Opposition to recognition of soviet Russia was expressed in letters to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull made public tonight by Matthew Woll, acting president of the National Civic Federation.

In a statement the federation said it was urging that "recognition of the Russian soviet regime be withheld by the United States until that regime shall have stopped its subversive propaganda in this country."

The letter to the secretary of state was dated March 24, 1933, and that to the president November 11, 1932. The federation has offices in New York. Among the officers listed on its stationery are Elihu Root, honorary president, and W. N. Doak, honorary vice president.

Early Passage Seen For Farm Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Confident that republican opposition could be blasted aside with comparative ease, democratic leaders in the senate today prepared to press ahead for early passage of the administration's far-flung farm relief program.

Leaders were wary, nevertheless, of the possibility that some democrats, disliking the Roosevelt bill's provisions for giving Secretary Wallace broad powers to deal with farm problems, may join hands with the republicans in voting for their substitute.

Such a move was viewed as the first possible serious opposition raised in either branch of congress against the administration program, but it was expected that any materialization would be bowled out of the way without major difficulty by the top-heavy democratic strength.

A number of amendments must yet be tackled by the senate, but leaders were hopeful today that a final vote could be had by Thursday or Friday.

Procedure Outlined For Jobs in Forests

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Here is the procedure being established for enrolling members of the forestry conservation corps:

Each state ultimately will be permitted to send a quota of the planned membership of 250,000 men on the basis of its population in the 1930 census—roughly one man for each 500 of population.

Enrollment, except in the case of the first 25,000 men, will be handled under the direction of the labor department through state unemployment relief agencies. The local branches may select as they desire if possessing records of jobless, or may delegate quotas to city and private relief groups.

The agency with a quota to fill is to make its selection from unmarried men from 18 to 25 years of age, who have received unemployment relief, who have dependent relatives and who are willing to have $22 to $25 of their $30 monthly wage sent home for the support of their dependents.

Each agency will interview men it selects from its eligible lists, and no registration of applicants is planned. After reaching an agreement, the recruit is certified to an army recruiting office, given a physical examination, and, if acceptable, taken to an army camp for conditioning, for vaccination, and to be outfitted with army clothing and trained in rudiments of camp life and forestry.

After two weeks of this, the recruit is to be sent to work camps in national forests and parks and on state and private forestry and erosion projects which remain to be selected finally.

The camps will consist of 200 men each, with special arrangements for medical care. The enlistment period is for six months, but if the recruit is offered a job in the meanwhile he will be released.

The first 25,000 men are being sent to camps from 17 cities in the eastern half of the country, and the groups chosen will be reckoned as part of the quota of the state from which they come.

SEVERE WIND STORM HITS CENTRAL TEXAS

WACO, Texas, April 9.—(AP)—A severe wind storm, almost of tornado strength, accompained by hail and rain, swept through north central Texas tonight, unroofing buildings and doing property damage in Hill, Ellis and Navarro counties, north of Waco. Early reports showed no one was injured.

Large, Frisky Horse's Sunday Jaunt Creates Consternation in Brooklyn

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—A big gray horse, whose job was sedately hauling a milk wagon around town in the early morning hours, broke out of its stall in a Brooklyn dairy stable today and, without bridle or harness, set off on a gallop through the April sunshine.

Its course, unfortunately, led through Brooklyn's most congested traffic district, and, by the time it had finally succumbed to more than a dozen bullets, it had:

Kept two motorcycle cops, one patrolman and three taxicab drivers busy for nearly half an hour, leading them on a five-mile chase, wheeling and cavorting on the pavement and darting around corners and in and out of streets and alleys.

Jumped lightly over one motorcycle and charged the other, demolishing it and tearing off most of the cop's uniform.

Fallen down on a patrolman who tried to "bulldog" the horse in a flying leap from the running board of a taxicab.

Forced dozens of motorcycles up onto the sidewalks.

The horse encountered the two motorcycle cops shortly after it started its jaunt.

"Whoa!" they yelled and tried to hem it in, but it galloped right between them.

Followed by the motorcycles it dashed around a corner where it encountered three taxicabs. They, too, took up the chase, with a patrolman on the running board of one cab.

Twice the patrolman tried to bring the horse down by jumping from the cab to its neck. Once he missed his mark. Once the horse fell—on the patrolman.

Once again the horse slipped on the pavement and went down, but it was up and off before its pursuers could lay a hand on it. Once they thought they had it hemmed in with motorcycles and cabs, but it jumped right over one of the motorcycles and was off again.

Finally, after it had charged one of the motorcycles, the police began firing at it. They fired 12 shots and a civilian emptied his revolver after it before they brought it down, dead.

Old Soldiers, Retired From Army, Make Homes Near Reservations

FORT BENNING, Ga., April 9.—(AP)—There's an army adage that "An old soldier never dies, he just dries up and blows away."

This is a story about some of the men who served their country for 30 years or more retired to civilian life but can't get away from army habits, formed during their long years of service.

Among these is "Leather," or more formally Sergeant Devoice. Thirty-two years of squads right and squads left were to his credit when the sergeant attended his last review a few months ago and was presented with his final honorable discharge.

"Leather" enlisted in the army when a youngster in New York, but when the time came for him to take his retirement pay he went just 20 miles away from this army post, the home of the nation's great infantry school, and bought a home at Bleeker, Alabama.

A short time later "Leather's" pal, Sergeant Jimmie Johnston, completing his required stretch of 30 years, retired to civilian life. Now Jimmie is "Leather's" bunkie on that little Alabama home place.

"Leather" is chief cook and there are reports that revellie and retreat still sound at Bleeker. Both sergeants are frequent Benning visitors to gossip about old times and the changes that are coming into the army with the years.

Then there is the case of Sergeant Prince. After receiving his last discharge, Prince celebrated by getting married and they are living on a quiet little farm near Columbus. Sergeant Prince just couldn't stand to get too far away from the Benning post and he too, spends many days here with other old-timers soon to quit the service.

Master Sergeant Coggins, who dropped that army title a short time ago to become a respected citizen of Cusseta, Ga., is probably the most frequent visitor to Benning of the old-timers, chiefly because he lives almost in the reservation.

Master Sergeant "Spud" Murphy, retired, spent most of his time with the coast artillery. When he retired he wanted to be near the boom of the big guns, so he bought a little home near Fort Barrancas, Fla., on the waterfront. Here he's happy because target practices are held frequently.

Andorra Rebels Win Nationwide Franchise

ANDORRA, Republic of Andorra, April 9.—(AP)—This tiny republic between France and Spain today underwent a revolution in which no one was hurt or arrested, with the rebels achieving a promise by the cabinet that the franchise henceforth will be granted all citizens.

Several hundred young men stormed the parliament building with demands that in future elections the cabinet of 24 members, which rules the country, be elected "by universal vote" rather than by "a restricted vote."

The cabinet refused at first to hear the petition. Thereupon the youthful rebels attacked the building and forced the cabinet to agree to recognize their demands.

All citizens of Andorra, the members promised, who are at least 21 years old, will be entitled to vote, whereas previously only heads of families enjoyed the franchise.

FORT VALLEY WINS SCHOOL PLAY CONTEST

AMERICUS, Ga., April 9.—The dramatic section of Georgia High School Association held its first annual meeting in Americus Saturday. The session was held in Rylander theater, and the occasion was the presentation of the association's annual one-act play contest.

Fort Valley and Richland were awarded first honors. First place was awarded Fort Valley, but two members of the Richland school cast were selected as the outstanding actors in the association. Schools represented in the contest were Anthony, Fort Valley, Hawkinsville, Perry and Richland.

"Romance Is a Racket" was the title of the play presented by the Richland cast with Martha Giles, Marjorie Mathis, Henry Wall, Felton Pearson, Norville Tante and Bardy Tante participating. "The Trysting Place" was presented by the winning Fort Valley team with Martha Gray Carithers, Frank Harrison, Gladys Coleman, Helen Wheeler, George D. Anderson, Abram Glass and Wallis Hardeman participating.

Hogansville Wins.

LAGRANGE Ga., April 8.—Hogansville High school, presenting "The Valiant," by Holland Middlemass, won the fourth district one-act play contest which was held Friday at LaGrange College with eight schools in the district competing. Miss Jacqueline McKenzie and Prentiss Courson directed the winning play.

McDonough High school, presenting "Grandma Pulls the String," directed by Miss Evelyn Powell, won second award. Third award was won by the Jackson High school students, who gave "Hugo in a Hurry," directed by Mrs. Marie Woods Newton.

Other schools competing were Thomaston, Manchester, Molena, West Point High schools and the Spalding High school of Griffin.

Judges were members of the faculty of Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

Spring Lid Stunt.

CORDELE, Ga., April 9.—Two of Cordele's leading department stores and the Atlantic Ice & Coal Company are putting on a novel stunt Tuesday. A 300-pound block of ice with a straw hat frozen in it will be placed in front of each store. All day patrons of the stores will be given an opportunity to guess how long it will take for all ice to melt away from the hats. The person who guesses the correct answer for each block will receive a new straw hat.

Oratorical Winners.

TENNILLE, Ga., April 9.—In the final contest to determine the representatives in recitation and declamation from the Tennille High school to the annual sixth district high school meet, which was held here last night, Miss Olga Stephens was the successful contestant in reading, defeating Misses Lillian Banks and Ruby Kelley. J. H. Boatwright won the place in declamation, defeating James Agerton and Harry King.

Americus Fire.

AMERICUS, Ga., April 9.—Fire of undetermined origin damaged the residence of J. C. Denham here Saturday to an estimated amount of $1,000.

Chamber Election.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 9.—The annual chamber of commerce banquet meeting, at which officers and directors for the ensuing year are elected, will be held on the evening of Friday, April 14, at the local American Legion home. The committee in charge of arrangements hopes to have Governor Eugene Talmadge present for an address. P. C. Searcy is president.

Club to Elect.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., April 9.—The annual meeting of the membership of the Glen Arven Country Club will be held Tuesday evening of this week, at which time the board of governors to serve for the coming year will be selected.

JEWISH ALLIANCE OF SAVANNAH MEETS

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 9.—At a meeting of the membership of the Jewish Educational Alliance, Jacob Gazan, well-known member of the Savannah bar, was again elected president.

Mr. Gazan has been the president of the alliance on several occasions and he has always proven a most efficient officer. The affairs of the alliance have made marked progress under his direction.

Messrs. Louis Sutker, Fred Rosen and H. Sol Clark were elected vice presidents. On the board of directors are Mrs. I. Meddin, Abraham Robinson, Samuel Cohen, Miss Anna Lou Friedman, Louis Roos, W. DR. McCAIN SPEAKER AT BERRY SCHOOLS

MOUNT BERRY, Ga., April 9.—"Seek beauty in all things, in people, nature and God," said Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College, of Decatur, in addressing the students and faculty members of Berry College and mountain schools in Mount Berry chapel Saturday.

Introduced by Dr. Martha Berry, founder and director of Berry schools, who told of the long friendship and interest shown in the institution by Dr. McCain, he said: "I rejoice in the growth of Berry schools in your addition of a college group, but above all I am pleased because you have kept the pleasant and sincere spirit of the past. However great you may become, even if you should become the great university of the south, I hope you still preserve your present spirit."

Ray, on East Waldburg street. He served for a short time as mayor of Savannah during the administrations of Mayor Herman Myers.

Congress Wants Georgia Paper, Made of Slash Pine, Preserved

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 8.—(AP)—History was made and the dream of a patient scientist came true in Soperton, Ga., recently with the printing of a newspaper on paper made of Georgia slash pine pulp and now there is a cry in congress to preserve copies for posterity.

The Soperton News, a weekly, has the distinction of being first to use a newsprint that some observers predict will revolutionize the paper-making industry.

Dr. Charles Holmes Herty, former president of the American Chemical Society and a native of Milledgeville, Ga., produced the paper after months of patient, painstaking experimentation in his laboratory here.

H. M. Flanders, editor of the Soperton News, lent valuable co-operation and his paper was chosen to bring about fulfillment of the dream Dr. Herty had nourished for years.

That edition of the News was a home-town product indeed. The pine trees of which the newsprint was made were grown on the outskirts of the town by James Fowler. He started planting slash pine seedlings in 1926 and now has 1,500,000 trees under cultivation.

Representative Homer C. Parker, of Statesboro, Ga., called Dr. Herty's accomplishment to the attention of congress and exhibited a copy of the Soperton News on the floor the other day.

When he finished speaking, Representative Keeler, of Illinois, said provisions should be made for preserving copies of the edition for future generations to see.

Representative Parker made much of the fact that the paper was made of trees only seven years old. Some experts maintain that factor, alone, will revolutionize the newsprint industry because many years are required for the growing of trees used heretofore.

Within seven years Fowler's trees grew to a height of 12 feet and were seven inches in diameter a foot from the ground and four inches at the top. Fowler has pines growing on 7,000 acres, much on land on which he formerly raised corn and cotton at a loss.

The recent session of the Georgia legislature appropriated $20,000 for Dr. Herty to use in advancing his experiments but Governor Talmadge vetoed it. He explained his action with the statement that the state farm experiment station at Tifton "can study logs as well as anybody."

The veto aroused civic organizations in the state to pledge their support to Dr. Herty. The experimentation is being continued despite the loss of the appropriation.

One Dead, 3 Hurt As Trucks Crash

BAXLEY, Ga., April 9.—(AP)—One man was killed and three injured in a rear-end collision of heavy trucks on the highway near here before daylight today.

Job Gillis, of McRae, was instantly killed, and Waldo Howell, and Owen McEacher, of McRae, and James Lee, Macon, were injured.

The truck, owned by McEachern, and driven by Gillis, had stopped on the road for repairs. It was struck from the back by the truck driven by Lee, who was en route from Brunswick to Macon with a load of sugar.

GEORGIA GIRL NAMED SCHOOL PAPER EDITOR

DENVER, April 8.—(AP)—Marian Fulton, of Grand Island, Neb., was elected president of the student body of the Colorado Women's College today.

Editorship of the student newspaper went to Emily Brown, of Fort Benning, Ga.

MRS. GEO. L. MORRIS IS DEAD AT SPARTA

SPARTA, Ga., April 9.—Mrs. George L. Morris, 44, died at her home here last night and was buried this afternoon in the Jewell cemetery at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Morris was ill only a few weeks. She was deputy clerk of Hancock superior court for a number of years. She is survived by her husband; one son; her mother, Mrs. S. D. Bass; two sisters and one brother.

Youth Dies as Ski Starts Avalanche

BANFF, Alta., April 9.—(AP)—R. A. E. C. Paley, an international research fellow in Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was killed near here Saturday when he was pitched from a mountain peak by an avalanche his ski set in motion.

The body of the 25-year-old English mathematician was recovered today after hours of digging in the crumbled rock and snow.

Paley had climbed on skis to a ledge of fossil mountain near the top of the 9,600-foot peak and was thrown into a valley when one foot scraped some light rock and started the slide.

He and several friends were spending a vacation at a lodge here. He was born in Bournemouth, England.

An inquest has been ordered and royal Canadian mounted police here are in charge.

DOUBLE RITES PLANNED FOR SUICIDE VICTIMS

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Stewart Will Be Buried Here This Morning.

Double funeral services will be held this morning for Mr. and Mrs. William T. Stewart, of 1493 Lucile avenue, unemployed couple who Saturday committed suicide almost simultaneously though neither knew of the other's intention.

Mrs. Stewart who was slightly younger than her 46-year-old husband, died of poison at Grady hospital several hours after her husband killed himself in a plunge from the ninth floor of the Walton building. Police, who went to notify Mrs. Stewart of her husband's death, found her dying of gas and poison.

Services are to be conducted at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes. The Rev. Harold Shields, the Rev. W. H. Faust and the Rev. C. R. Stauffer will officiate. The couple will be buried side by side in West View cemetery.

Coroner Paul Donehoo, after an inquest into the death of Mr. Stewart, said neither the man nor wife knew of the other's intention to commit suicide and that it was the strangest coincidence he ever handled. Mrs. Stewart made a statement before her death but was not told her husband was dead.

The couple are survived by a son, William T. Stewart Jr., a marine stationed at Quantico, Va. The husband was a brother of A. H. Stewart, of Atlanta, and the wife was the sister of Mrs. Gussie Stapleton, of Douglas.

ATLANTA, GA., APRIL 10, 1933.

THE USERS SHOULD PAY.

As in the United States, the improperly taxed use of government-constructed highways by vehicles in the transportation of passengers and freight, in competition to the railroads, has been a constantly growing problem in Great Britain.

Faced by an increasing loss of business, the rail lines appealed to the government either for release from the heavy taxation to which they are subjected, or else for such regulation and taxation of the motor lines as would make successful competition possible.

After months of discussion in the public prints and in parliament, a commission of experts, three from the railroads and three from the highway transport industry, was named by the minister of transport for the purpose of seeking a solution of the problem.

The solution arrived at by this commission is, succinctly, that those who use the highways should pay for them, and that the trucks should pay a fair share of these costs.

The average annual amount spent in Great Britain during the past five years for the construction and maintenance of highways, bridges and ferries is in excess of $250,000,000, and the commission, having decided that all users of the paved roads should pay for them in fair ratio, set about to decide what that ratio should be.

As a result of its deliberations the commission adopted a combination of the gas-tax and ton-mile principles of taxation.

Estimating that highway costs would be reduced 2½ per cent if no trucks heavier than four tons were in use, the conference allocated 2½ per cent of the total highway cost to trucks exceeding that weight, to be distributed among them on an ascending scale.

The remaining 97½ per cent was then allocated on the gasoline tax basis, by estimating the number of ton-miles made by all vehicles annually and dividing this figure into the amount left of the annual expenditures on the roads.

By this method it was found that a tax of 18 cents per gallon on gas would raise the necessary amount, this to be in addition to the present tax of 9 cents.

A mathematical application of the schedule for heavy trucks shows that under the plan a ten-ton truck would pay an annual fee amounting to $2,415 in American money at par of exchange, while the tax on a six-ton truck would be scaled down to $1,336.

These rates would apply only to machines with pneumatic tires, those with solid tires, which would be prohibited after 1940, having to pay 25 per cent additional.

In allocating highway costs, the commission put 40 per cent of the total on trucks and 60 per cent on private cars, motorcycles, buses and taxicabs.

Whether or not the plan is adopted, its conclusions as to the contribution of large motor-driven vehicles to the cost of the highways, and the share they should bear in that cost, is of direct value in the consideration of the problem in the United States of how these vehicles can be made to pay a just part of highway construction and maintenance.

THE MUSIC CLUB'S DRIVE.

The annual membership campaign of the Atlanta Music and Civic Music Association, which will be conducted from April 10 to 15, should be generously supported by the people of the city.

No city in the south is as widely known for the prominent part played by music in the cultural side of its activities and the Music Club and the Civic Music Association have as their objectives the further development of this important phase of our civic life.

The civic music movement was originated 11 years ago by Miss Dema E. Harshbarger, of Chicago, and is now represented in every city of importance in the country. Among the active backers of the movement are such men as President Roosevelt, Dr. Charles H. Mayor, Harvey Firestone and other leaders in the public and business life of the United States.

Its aim is to bring good music within the scope of interest and means of the average family, and it is operated on a non-profit basis, with the officers of the national organization and the local groups serving without remuneration.

In Atlanta the movement has been sponsored for five years by the Atlanta Music Club, of which Mrs. Howard C. Smith is president and T. Stanley Perry treasurer. As a result the music lovers of the city have had opportunity during this period of hearing many outstanding artists and musical organizations which otherwise they might not have had opportunity to enjoy.

The series of concerts for next season will be one of the most elaborate yet presented, and both from the standpoint of cultural entertainment and the support of a valuable civic organization the Music Club's campaign for membership should meet with a cordial response.

THE MORAL OF EMPTY FARMS.

Significant statistics on rural life in America, pointing to maladjustments in the population of the country during the past two decades, are contained in a monograph, "Rural Social Trends," issued under the auspices of the research committee on social trends named by former President Hoover.

Until recently, the authors of the monograph point out, the rural population of the nation had been constantly decreasing in proportion to total population. Thirty-three of the 48 states of the Union were more than one-half rural in 1920, but only 27 maintained that ratio of inhabitants through 1930.

A hopeful sign for a readjustment back to a more normal basis is seen in the present drift back to the farm, it being predicted that "should the present movement of the population from city to country continue, the rural share of the total population may show a much smaller proportionate loss than for the last two decades and conceivably may register a slight gain."

No state has suffered more than Georgia from the injurious effects of diminishing farm population during the decade between 1920 and 1930, many of our agricultural counties losing between 40 and 50 per cent of their farm inhabitants during that period.

As a result of the desertion of the farms, the small communities and towns in these counties have suffered severely from the loss of trade from the farm sections. Thousands of stores throughout Georgia have been forced out of business and those that remained have experienced sharp declines in their patronage. In turn, this falling off of trade has been communicated to the wholesale concerns and the industries of the cities of the state.

Most of these former farm families are now among the unemployed in the cities. In Atlanta it is estimated that three-fourths of the many thousands who are idle came from the farm, and now, unable to return to their former homes, are dependent upon the community for food and shelter.

The same situation exists in practically every agricultural state in the Union, and the complete recovery from the economic upset from which the nation has been suffering will not come until a more sound ratio in population as between the farm and the city is established.

Anyway, business giants no longer have the nerve to call poets and such "impractical visionaries."

A dime will do more now in some ways, but it can't make a waiter's nose turn up.

There's nothing more devastating than war, unless you count a securities department.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Refugees.

At all the frontier stations bordering on Germany one sees groups of refugees fleeing from the Reich and trying to gain admission in more hospitable countries. I noticed several parties of tired and exhausted men and women, with their children, sitting at the Swiss frontier where, so I was assured, they had been negotiating with the Swiss authorities for several days. No country is in the mood at the present time to admit immigrants. There is the natural fear that they will become charges on the public exchequer. This is the reason of the delay in admitting refugees from Germany.

In France, fortunately, the process is speeded up. A committee was immediately set up by the government to deal with the emergency situation and some of the usual immigration formalities dispensed with. This morning I saw a party of 85 German Jews arriving in Paris and being dealt with by the immigration directors. They were through in half an hour's time. While waiting I listened to their tale of woe. It is incredible that such a thing could have happened in the twentieth century. Poor, harmless people for the most part, with no other desire than to make a modest living, and now simply terrorized out of their existence and forced to run across the border.

Herr Hitler and his friends must have great satisfaction in clearing their Germany of such potential dangers to the state. It's a wonderful victory to be sure.

DAY BY DAY

In Georgia's History

Seventy-one years ago today Fort Pulaski was bombarded by federals and taken.

On April 11, 1708, who was made an agent to transact affairs between Great Britain and Georgia?

For the two best original 25-word answers to the foregoing question, Loew's Grand theater, co-operating with The Constitution, will award two pairs of guest tickets to see "Perfect Understanding." Answers must be mailed to the Day-by-Day Editor, Constitution, and must bear a postmark not later than midnight tomorrow.

"Perfect Understanding" is a United Artist production starring Gloria Swanson in her best role since "The Trespasser." "Perfect Understanding" started a week's run at Loew's Grand Friday.

Today's winners: Mrs. Hubert Bradley, 3131 Piedmont road, N. E.; Mrs. G. E. Carlisle, 758 Primrose street, S. E. Every day guest tickets are mailed to the winners.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

SOMETHING FOR CUTS, BURNS, STINGS AND SKIN IRRITATIONS

Some of your articles I am saving for future reference, writes a man, as I intend to spend the greater part of my life in the tropics away from civilization where a good knowledge of hygiene and sanitation is more necessary than it is here where one can call in a physician.

Are boric acid and boracic acid the same thing or are they different? I understand that some hospitals use refined borax as an antiseptic instead of boric acid. Is this true? Is borax a good antiseptic? Would a mixture of powdered boric acid and petrolatum be a good application for cuts, burns, etc.? If so, what proportions of each should be used? (C. C. P.)

Yes, boric acid is the modern spelling for the same substance formerly called laracic acid. Boric acid is less freely soluble in water than borax, but more freely soluble in alcohol, which does not dissolve borax at all. Borax is the sodium salt of boric acid—sodium borate, and it is alkaline in taste and reaction.

Either borax or boric acid is a comparatively feeble antiseptic, but these feeble antiseptics are popular in hospitals because they are less irritating than other antiseptics and may be freely used without much risk of doing harm.

In my opinion—I can find no disinterested scientific comparison—boric acid and borax are equally good antiseptics, and I believe one can obtain every possible good effect from the use of boric acid (I don't know why we prefer boric acid to borax in general practice today) as an antiseptic medicament or agent that one can expect from any antiseptic remedy.

Plain boric acid ointment is official in the British pharmacopoeia. It is made of one ounce of boric acid in fine powder with nine ounces of white paraffin ointment. Paraffin ointment is a mixture of three ounces of hard paraffin wax and seven ounces of soft paraffin, which is the same as pure mineral oil called petrolatum in the United States. For tropical climate the hard and soft paraffin is mixed about half and half. Such a 10 per cent boric acid ointment is an excellent all-around salve to use as a first aid or home dressing for burns, cuts, stings or skin irritations where an antiseptic, non-irritating protective dressing is required. It is quite as "healing" and soothing as any such remedy can be, and it is safer than many nostrums offered for such use.

Although boric acid or borax is antiseptic (retards or prevents multiplication of bacteria) one should regard it as though it were merely so much sterile (germ-free) petrolatum or paraffin. For that matter, it is always more cleanly and safer to apply such salve directly from a collapsible tube. It is difficult or impossible to prevent contamination of a box or jar of salve once the container has been opened and some of the ointment taken out. People who keep boxes or jars of petrolatum (petroleum jelly) in the house should sterilize the supply from time to time by boiling or cooking for 30 minutes.

Boric acid is one of the ingredients of "Old Doc Salve," a tube of which is included in the Pocket Emergency kit. We are glad to mail to any correspondent who encloses stamped envelope bearing his address, instructions for assembling and using the Pocket Emergency kit.

HEAD OF NOTRE DAME REPORTED IMPROVED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 9.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles Leo O'Connell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame University, tonight was reported by doctors to be "considerably improved and apparently recovering" after an attack of bronchial pneumonia.

He has been in a hospital here for several days and last week doctors expressed fears that Father O'Donnell would not recover.

Why Build a Ladder To Grasp a Prize That Is Now Within Your Reach?

By Robert Quillen

The greatest prize life can offer is contentment. It is the goal of all man's striving—the measure of success or failure.

Wealth and fame and power bring no balm or benison to the man who longs in vain for something more; poverty and obscurity cannot bring unhappiness to the man who is content with what he has.

It follows, then, that the greatest of life's prizes is a state of mind often denied to those who seem most fortunate and as often awarded to those who seem most destitute.

The common goal of mankind is happiness. And the pursuit of happiness consists in the effort to satisfy desire. Give me the things I desire, says man, and I shall be content.

It is obvious, then, that all of the material things for which men strive are but a means to an end. Fame and fortune, place and power are coveted and sought in the hope that they will afford contentment.

If this is true, all of us have wasted our energies in pursuit of the wrong thing.

If contentment is the greatest prize and the thing we most desire, why not strike for contentment itself instead of struggling to win certain materials that may or may not afford contentment.

If the fruit you desire may be had for the taking, why spend your life assembling chemicals to produce an artificial fruit of the same flavor?

The state of mind called contentment can be developed when you will. The moment you desire it and determine to achieve it, Lo! it is yours.

Contentment is merely the absence of envy, anxiety, remorse, avarice, fear, resentment, self-pity, covetousness, shame.

And to rid yourself or these mental handicaps, you need only determine in your heart to be satisfied with things as they are.

You need not plan a new life. Go about your affairs as usual, doing the thing that seems reasonable and right. But live only in the present moment, without regard for the past or future, and say in your heart: "Life is short. Nothing matters very much. I am satisfied. Come what will, I shall not care."

It is the mental attitude of simple savages, of great philosophers, and of those who love and trust the Lord.

To achieve it is to gain at once the whole sum of good for which earth's millions strive in vain.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 9.—Because our sunny season is already upon us, Hollywood's stars are preparing for a pastel-toned Easter. Teas, beer-and-pretzel parties, Easter breakfasts and dinners galore have been planned in the professional colony. Here is an idea of what some of your favorites plan to wear:

Carole Lombard has planned all white with a touch of bold color. A long white wool coat is lined with yellow, dark blue and red striped silk. The frock beneath is cut on tailored lines and is of chalk white crepe. All the accessories are white, including smart ooze pumps with many perforations and military heels and a bag of white ooze leather with clasp in natural wood.

Dust pink in rough crepe is the gown which Wynne Gibson plans. The little coat which accompanies a bias-cut gown is elaborately trimmed with organdie collars and cuffs; perishable and feminine and ideally suited to Wynne Gibson's Persian-kitten type of beauty. Claire Windsor, her close friend, will wear palest grey with cape to match—knee-length, this cape—and the material one of those linens that look like wool.

Mae West will top her black and white ensemble with a high crowned white hat with short nose veil of white, dotted in chenille. Her dress will be white rough crepe but the topcoat will be of black faille silk.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce's all-white dress will be accented with navy accessories. Shoes, hat, gloves and purse will be in the darker tone. Oh, the gloves have little white polka dots on them.

Kay Francis wears white better than almost any girl in the colony. Her dress of heavy knit silk will be worn to an Easter breakfast. A broad-brimmed hat with shallow crown will accentuate her patrician brunet beauty and white sandals will complete the costume.

Lilian Harvey, who will entertain ten friends at an Easter Sunday breakfast, will wear a sports frock of blue and white cotton material—sleeveless and cut with plain full skirt. All her guests have been asked to attend in sports clothes.

Janet Gaynor, who is giving a little dinner party, will wear navy blue organdy made with bouffant skirt and topped by a packet of white with gathered shoulders and the new wide revers.

When Sally Eilers serves those waffles for which she is famous at her Easter Sunday breakfast, she will wear a gingham house dress in pink and white checks. Pink sandals and a pink ribbon tied through her golden hair will make a picture of morning loveliness.

E. A. T. TO REDUCE AIR TIME TO N. Y.

pany will take the name of North American Aviation, Inc. Mr. Breech said that it represents an important step for General Motors in consolidating interests which it already has with other interests so that it can get behind aviation in a big way.

The party, which includes Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, World War American ace of aces, arrived from Savannah in one of the new Condors which E. A. T. is planning to install on its system about the first of June. In the party, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Breech and Captain and Mrs. Doe, are Richard W. Robbins, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc; Harris M. Hanshue, president of Western Air Express; H. A. Elliott, vice president of Eastern Air Transport; E. R. Parker, pilot, and Miss Edwina Davis, hostess.

The visitors will be guests at luncheon this afternoon at the Capital City Club, with Lindsey Hopkins, a director of North American Aviation, as host. They will leave Tuesday for Miami, Fla.

Captain Doe said that five of the new Condors have been ordered for E. A. T., and that they are the last word in comfort, speed, safety and convenience. The cruising speed is 145 miles an hour, and the motors and floors are mounted on rubber, affording freedom from vibration. The new 15-passenger ships will increase the average daily seating capacity between Atlanta and New York from 11 to 15, by taking the place of the old 18-passenger Condors and 6-passenger Kingbird which now alternate, Captain Doe said.

Insulation placed in the cabin construction of the new Condors eliminates practically all of the airship noise and enables conversation to be carried on in ordinary tones, it was said. Captain Doe described the new ships as veritable "air Pullmans."

"Service on E. A. T. lines will be improved as rapidly as support improves, and right now it looks good," Captain Doe said. "We carried 4,500 passengers last month. Our new Condors, built to our specifications with two 700-horsepower air-cooled Cyclone motors, will reduce the schedule time between Atlanta and New York to six and a half or seven hours from nine hours."

The merger represents the first move toward simplification of the various corporate interests represented in Western Air Express, T. & W. A., and T. A. T., and others are contemplated, Mr. Breech said. The plan calls for elimination of interlocking directorates, so that there can be genuine competing air lines without interlocking interests.

Mr. Breech said that there will be left only three important transcontinental companies as the result of the consolidation, these being the T. W. A.-E. A. T. interests, American Airways and United, which, he said, "fly more than all of Europe put together."

In showing the development of commercial air transportation, Mr. Breech said that passenger miles in 1931 were 106,440,000, as compared with 127,038,038 in 1932, and that the number of passengers carried increased from 469,000 in 1931 to 474,000 in 1932. Express increased from 788,000 in 1931 to 1,039,000 in 1932. Mail poundage was 9,000,000 in 1931 at the 5-cent rate, and 7,400,000 in 1932 at the 8-cent rate, he said.

SHIPS ARE DAMAGED IN COLLISION AT SEA

GALVESTON, Texas, April 9.—(AP)—The Morgan line freighter El Coston and the Pennsylvania Shipping Company tanker Meton arrived in port today for repair of damage suffered in a collision about 40 miles off Galveston in a heavy fog last night.

No one was injured in the crash.

vance. Shihmenchai, northwest of Chinwangtao and between that point and the Great Wall, was reported taken several days ago from the Chinese.

Despite Japanese official claims that the Manchukuoan forces had occupied Chinwangtao, the Chinese appeared to have thrown heavy reinforcements into action from the direction of Lanchow which had halted and pushed back the Manchukuoan advance south of the Great Wall.

Japanese military officials here were silent concerning developments east of the Lwan river, while Chinese authorities claimed their troops had advanced north of Shihmenchai toward Chiumenkow Pass. This, it was said, had caused the Japanese to reinforce Shanhaikwan, which the Chinese movement threatens. (Shanhaikwan was occupied by Japanese soldiers last January.)

Japanese artillery and airplanes were reported bombarding Hsifengkow Pass through the Great Wall, where a Chinese attack was said to have been launched.

Chinese here claimed that "large scale hostilities are imminent."

Foreign circles anticipated that in the event the Chinese successes continued, Japanese regular troops, which leaders of those forces claim have not yet pushed south of the Wall, will enter the campaign.

British naval authorities at Shanghai announced today that British marines had landed in Chinwangtao.

A report from Hongkong said 8,000 men of the nineteenth route army, which participated in the Shanghai campaign last year, were preparing to entrain for Hankow, where the southern army will be assembled under Tsai Ting-kai to assist in the northern campaign. Tsai was the hero of the Shanghai engagements.

of getting more than 500 or 600 miles on one supply of gasoline, and today we cross the ocean, doing 3,000 miles, without replenishing fuel tanks.

"We are better prepared now for war, but we should not neglect the army and navy air service, because through neglect we would lay ourselves open to attack."

In reference to the Akron disaster, Captain Rickenbacker, a believer in lighter-than air-craft, said that "we did not stop building ships when the Titanic went down. I feel that lighter-than-air has a distinct and valuable function, and I do not believe that the Akron disaster will discourage the building of airships. It is through cumulative experience that we overcome handicaps. The Germans lost plenty of Zeppelins during the war, and now the Graf Zeppelin has made 15 trips over the ocean without trouble."

duced with labor working longer than 30 hours a week. Black said such a provision would be "impossible and unworkable" even if a million agents were hired to investigate abroad.

Meanwhile, Black will press for early committee consideration of his follow-up measure to substitute the six-hour for the eight-hour day on the railroads.

Encouraged by organized labor's hearty indorsement of his other bill, the Alabaman now proposes to extend his new proposal to all transportation and public utilities operating in interstate commerce, including bus, airplane, telephone and telegraph companies.

AKRON'S VICTIMS ARE PAID TRIBUTE AT CAPITAL RITES

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—While the muted notes of "taps" echoed through the lofty Washington cathedral in requiem for the 73 who died in the Akron's plunge, the Rt. Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal bishop of Washington, today paid them tribute as having maintained "the unfailing tradition which we inevitably associate with men of the navy."

Scores of comrades of the men who died, enlisted men and high officers of the army and navy, Secretary Swanson among them, offered prayers during the special memorial service for the victims of the greatest airship tragedy this country has seen.

An entire section of the cathedral's great choir was filled solidly with service men. Assistant Secretary Roosevelt of the navy, Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations; members of the senate and house naval committees and Mrs. John N. Garner, wife of the vice president, were among the throng that filled the church.

President Roosevelt will wait until May 30 to pay tribute at a Memorial Day ceremony in Arlington amphitheater, the White House having intimated it wished to wait until more of the bodies of victims were rescued from the sea.

the improvised courtroom which had been prepared for it in the scrupulously clean two-story room where inflated gas cells used in dirigibles are examined. The shop, a red brick building, is located a few hundred yards from the hangar where the Akron was berthed.

Beyond approving the courtroom, the court gave no indications as to what course the proceedings will follow when the first session starts at 10 a. m. There was no word on the first witnesses to be called nor the nature of the initial testimony the court would take.

Lieutenant Commander Ralph G. Pennoyer, who will act as the court's judge advocate, arrived from Washington today. He declined to amplify previous statements that the inquiry would deal first with operational aspects of the Akron's fatal flight last Monday night. In this regard the court is expected to adduce testimony whether the best operation, according to standard practice, was being pursued on the Akron's last trip.

If the same procedure is followed as was in the inquiry into the Shenandoah crash, the court will early consider whether weather conditions were forecast properly and whether the Akron was handled efficiently in view of the weather.

Lieutenant H. U. Commander Wiley, only surviving officer of the disaster, has stated to the house naval affairs committee that at the time the Akron took off, "the weather was foggy, the ceiling was about 300 feet and the wind about 6 miles per hour, from the northeast."

Commander Pennoyer worked late on a mass of detail that had to be studied before the opening of court, among them the task of interviewing Commander Wiley, and the only other two survivors, Richard Deal, and Moody Erwin.

NORMAN DAVIS PLEASED BY VISIT TO BERLIN

BERLIN, April 9.—(AP)—Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador-at-large, started a return trip to Paris this evening after letting it be known that he felt quite reassured as to the results of his visit here.

The new German authorities, it was explained, he had found ready and willing to discuss all the problems in which he is engaged.

(Mr. Davis went to Berlin after discussing with British and French officials disarmament and preparatory plans for the world economic conference.)

Appointment of the German delegation for conversations in Washington with President Roosevelt has not yet been made, but it was understood a number of foreign office experts will proceed to Washington to assist Dr. Hans Luther, new German ambassador, who sailed Saturday from Bremen.

Daughter of Mikell Very Ill in Savannah

Mrs. John Marshall Jones, of Savannah, daughter of Bishop and Mrs. H. J. Mikell, of Atlanta, is critically ill at her home in Savannah with a blood infection, it was learned here Sunday.

Bishop and Mrs. Mikell left Atlanta Saturday night to be with their daughter. Mrs. Jones was widely known and very popular here as the former Miss Henrietta Mikell and has resided in Savannah for the last two years. She has been ill for some time and physicians said Sunday her condition was critical.

Minister Held in Attack On Woman R.F.C. Official

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., April 9. (UP)—Failing to make bond, the Rev. J. W. Creed, Pentecostal minister, was jailed here Saturday night on an indictment charging slander and libel.

The charges were based on the alleged circulation by the minister of false reports concerning official activities of Mrs. Harmon Seaford, R. F. C. relief official, and certain of her associates.

Creed recently accused Mrs. Seaford in a letter to the department of justice in Washington of embezzling relief funds. He failed to provide evidence, however, when the woman was arraigned in municipal court and the matter was referred to the grand jury.

Texan Murders Four And Ends Own Life

BEAUMONT, Texas, April 9.—(AP) Dallas Barksdale, 65, sought in Texas and Louisiana in connection with the killing of four persons—his estranged wife, her daughter and son-in-law and their infant son—was found dead today, a suicide.

The other dead were:

Mrs. Laura Franklin, 45, estranged wife of Barksdale.

H. M. Hastings, 30, her son-in-law.

Mrs. Hastings, 16, daughter of Mrs. Franklin.

H. M. Hastings Jr., three months old.

Barksdale's body, a bullet wound through the forehead, was found on the Trinity river bank in Liberty county, near the town of Liberty and the Hastings home where the quadruple killing occurred.

Neighbors said Barksdale came there from San Jacinto county Friday and quarreled with Mrs. Franklin and the Hastings family.

Bodies of the four were found last night. All had been killed with a .22-caliber rifle.

DEATH IN CHAIR, ALABAMA VERDICT

compensation and would pay his own expenses.

The outcome of the trial added a new chapter to the strange case which has aroused international interest since Patterson and seven other young negroes were convicted at Scottsboro.

Late yesterday, after the jury had taken Patterson's case, Judge Horton granted severances for the other defendants and the trial of Charlie Weems was set for April 17 after counsel had entered a plea of not guilty for him. Only seven of the original group of nine negroes charged with the attack are involved in the retrials. The other two were held to be juveniles and their cases await further investigation.

Defense Spreads Mob Rumor.

After the spreading of numerous rumors that mobs were forming here, for which authorities insisted there was no foundation, members of counsel for the negroes asserted yesterday that fiery crosses had flamed on Alabama's hills the previous night and that they believed their lives were threatened. A joint statement by Joseph R. Brodsky, of New York, a defense attorney and Leibowitz asserted that the burning of the crosses followed a remark in court that day by Solicitor Wright that witnesses for the defense were being "bought with Jew money." The statement added that "only the presence of the national guard prevented a mob from entering Decatur."

Ruby's Reappearance.

The latter part of Patterson's trial also was featured by the dramatic appearance of Ruby Bates, who had been missing from her home for some time. Saying she had just arrived from a hitch-hiking trip to New York, Ruby repudiated the testimony she gave in the original trials two years ago. She denied that she had been attacked and said she had not seen Mrs. Price molested by the negroes as they rode through north Alabama aboard a freight train on which the two women were hoboing their way home after seeking work in Tennessee.

Prosecuting Attorneys, headed by Attorney-General Thomas E. Knight Jr., charged immediately that Ruby had perjured herself, and spoke of "sinister influences" in New York, which they said were responsible for the fact that she appeared in court smartly dressed in contrast to the inexpensive attire of Mrs. Price. Judge Horton took cognizance of this development in his charge to the jury when he said: "The law has a stern duty to perform and when women of the underworld come before it, the jury must consider that fact."

Judge Horton also said there should be no thought of color, race or sectionalism in the jury's deliberations.

Shortly after the verdict against Patterson was returned he was taken under military escort to Birmingham to join his eight companions yet facing trial, who were removed there last night.

Patterson was tried on an indictment charging him with attacking Mrs. Price, who took the stand as the principal witness for the state, and pointed to him as one of six negroes who attacked her in a gondola car of a freight train after throwing six white youths off.

Protests to Governor.

The evidence hinged largely on the testimony of the two women. Knight and Leibowitz addressed their arguments to this question at length.

"This is a damnable frameup by two irresponsible women," Leibowitz said, as he charged that the story of the attack was made up by Mrs. Price. The Bates girl had testified, saying "I said what Victoria did," in explaining her testimony in the first trials.

"Ruby Bates sold out, lock, stock and barrel," Knight said as he tore into her testimony before the jury.

In the two years the case has been pending in the courts, demonstrations have been held and subscriptions taken in all parts of the world in behalf of the negroes.

Thousands of protests signed by individuals and organizations have been sent to Governor B. M. Miller at Montgomery and to other state officials connected with the trials, demanding changes of venues and "immediate and unconditional release of the defendants."

Once while the cases were on appeal to the Alabama supreme court guards were on duty at the capitol and twice in Washington guards have been placed over the United States supreme court building to prevent demonstrations.

I. L. D. DENOUNCES SOUTH. SUPREME COURT

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—The national office of the International Labor Defense announced tonight that an appeal will be taken immediately in the case of Haywood Patterson, negro convicted today in Decatur, Ala., in the Scottsboro case.

The announcement said the case will be fought to the supreme court if necessary.

"The immediate demands of the I. L. D.," said William L. Patterson, national secretary, "now will be for a new trial. . . . a change of venue to Birmingham for the remaining boys to be tried, adjournment of their trials until after the appeal in the Patterson case, and immediate, unconditional, safe release for all the nine boys.

"The demands will be made not only to the courts and state authorities of Alabama, but to President Roosevelt, who, as chief executive, will be called upon to give protection to the boys, their witnesses and lawyers, whether they are menaced with lynching by a jury or by extra-legal agencies.

"The lynchers of the south," read the organization's formal statement, "the landlords and mill owners, whose system of oppression and terror against the negro people and the poor whites has been most sharply challenged in the fight to save the lives of the Scottsboro boys, are determined to murder them.

"These rulers of the south have common interests with the rulers of the north. The United States supreme court is the common tool of both.

"The life of Haywood Patterson, and the lives of the eight other innocent negro boys, rests now where it has always rested, in the hands of the workers of the world, negro and white, who have four times already saved them from death."

As soon as word of the conviction reached Harlem today, William Davis, publisher of a negro newspaper, posted on his bulletin board a petition by which the residents of the negro section would signify their intention of going to Washington to protest to President Roosevelt.

The petition was posted at noon and by 4:30 o'clock more than 16,000 signatures had been obtained.

Police estimated 2,500 persons were waiting in a double line to add their names, and five patrolmen were assigned to keep them in order.

Davis said he planned to have 50,000 negroes from all parts of the country join the movement to Washington.

He sent telegrams to publishers of negro newspapers in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Norfolk, Va., asking them to join in the plan.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE SHOALS PROPOSAL TO CAPITOL TODAY

To Receive Proposals.

Tomorrow night the president will receive from his aides alternative proposals for restoring the rail carriers. The plans all focus on the appointment of a federal co-ordinator. Secretaries Woodin and Roper and Joseph B. Eastman, of the interstate commerce commission, will go over the railroad situation; and with their co-operation Mr. Roosevelt will draft his legislative recommendation.

In all probability the president will leave the submission of the small home refinancing measure to leaders on Capitol Hill. Already a bill has been drafted there along the lines of his advancing proposal for farm mortgages.

This measure would allow refinancing of mortgages on homes valued at not more than $20,000, with an interest rate of 4 or 4 1-2 per cent and a three-year moratorium on amortization.

The Roosevelt bill for strict regulation of new securities issues is due from both the house and senate committees during the week. It is being changed somewhat, but the general principle of federal control will be maintained.

Adjournment by June.

The judiciary committee is about to decide the constitutional issue whether the $500,000,000 unemployment aid bill passed by the senate should not have been originated in the house because it is regarded as a revenue bill. Anyway, congressional approval of this proposal is due quickly.

Congressional leaders still are pointing to June 1 as the latest date for conclusion of the emergency session, but there is no certainty of its accomplishment.

Confident that congress will give him the remainder of his program, the president patiently is watching progress. There is no hint yet of any cracking of the White House whip in an effort to speed action. Nor is there any certainty it won't be cracked if delay is encountered.

BEER TAXES AIDING 19 STATES IN TASK OF SQUARING BOOKS

31 gallons or the equivalent; 3 cents a gallon on lesser amounts.

Massachusetts—One dollar a barrel.

Maine—Manufacturers' tax, $2,500; wholesalers, $300; excise tax, $1.25 per barrel; hotels, restaurants and clubs permitting consumption on premises, $100, and other retailers, $50.

New Hampshire—One dollar per barrel.

Missouri—One cent a gallon inspection fee, $500 brewer's license, $50 distributor's license, $10 retailer's license for consumption on the premises and $5 for consumption off the premises.

California—Brewer's annual license $100, 2 cents a gallon manufacturing tax.

Colorado—Brewer's tax $1,000, distributors, $500; retailers, $25; proposed tax for old age pension funds still pending.

Indiana—Five cents a gallon.

New Jersey—Pending establishment of permanent code, temporary code provides 3 cents a gallon tax and $50 license fees for brewers and distributors.

New York—A tax of 3 1-3 cents a gallon on distributors, those who manufacture within the state or bring in beer from other states.

Ohio—Brewer's license, $1,000 for 5,000 barrels annually or less, plus 5 cents a barrel over 5,000; distributor's license, $1,000; hotels, clubs, restaurants and amusement parks, $100; retail stores selling for off-premise consumption, $50.

Louisiana—Beer to be legal after April 13 with $1 a barrel direct state tax, 50 cents a barrel state license levy and additional local taxation not to exceed 50 cents a barrel.

Wisconsin—Tax of $1 a barrel, or 3 1-4 cents per gallon for less than a barrel.

Illinois, Delaware, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada, Utah and North Dakota impose no state taxes, although in Utah and North Dakota the brew will not become legal until July 1. Even then, in Utah, beer can be made for sale only outside the state.

In Illinois the legislature last week turned down the governor's recommendations for state taxes on beer. In Maryland, although the state derives no revenue from taxes, counties and incorporated cities are empowered to levy taxes for $25 on retailers for "off-premise" consumption and $50 for "on-premise" consumption.

States still beerless where legislation to legalize and tax the brew is pending include Michigan, West Virginia, Connecticut, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. In the last mentioned state voters will decide in a referendum next fall whether they shall have beer.

Indictments Served On Britons by Soviet

MOSCOW, April 9.—(AP)—The six British subjects accused in the Metropolitan-Vickers case have been formally served with a joint indictment and warned not to discuss the charges with anyone save their Russian defense attorneys.

Accordingly, the specific details of the accusations of espionage, sabotage and bribery on which they were arrested still are unknown publicly. Furthermore, it has not been disclosed whether they will be made public in advance of their trial, which will begin at noon April 12.

It was learned, however, that the indictment consists of 77 pages, and names, in addition to the British subjects, about 16 Russians. It was not disclosed whether the others would be tried at the same as the Englishmen.

THIRD WEEK OPENS IN DRIVE FOR HALL

Leaders Are Confident Objective of $100,000 Will Be Reached Soon.

Workers in the campaign to raise $100,000 for erection of Georgia Hall at Warm Springs will start the third week of the campaign today, confident that momentum given during the first two weeks will push the drive to its objective within the next few days and that when the final returns are in more than 100,000 Georgians will be on the honor roll of subscribers.

Conceived as a fitting tribute to the humanitarian and leadership qualities of President Roosevelt, the new building was designed to serve as a central unit of the growing foundation. It will house patients and also contain a few rooms for the accommodation of relatives of the inmates when they pay visits to one of Georgia's most famous resorts.

Leaders in the campaign have repeatedly pointed out the fact that Georgia Hall is not intended as a hotel, but will be turned over to the foundation as a humanitarian institution.

Cason J. Callaway, chairman of the campaign, and Cator Woolford, vice chairman, were enthusiastic concerning the response up to date. Both agreed that the subscriptions by thousands of Georgians conclusively showed their admiration for the president.

In Atlanta the drive will take on new life this week when representatives of every important industry, business and profession in Atlanta will take the field to augment Mr. Woolford's committee. Work in the state will go on with a new vim, Mr. Callaway said, asserting that he expected many more counties to equal or exceed their quotas this week. Five counties already have reported "over-the-top" in donations.

GUARANTEE BILL NEAR COMPLETION

Congress Soon To Be Given Measure To Protect Depositors.

By CECIL B. DICKSON.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Complete except in controverted details, the $2,000,000,000 bank deposit guarantee bill, designed to reform banking practices and restore depositor confidence in such institutions was ready today for immediate introduction in both the senate and house.

Chairman Steagall, of the house banking committee, said today he would hold a conference with Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, co-sponsor of the legislation, and members of the senate banking subcommittee that has drafted the measure, before the bill actually is presented to congress.

"While there is a difference in some details dealing with state banks," the Alabama democrat said, "Senator Glass and I are in accord on the principle of the bill. The bill I shall introduce probably will differ slightly from the senate measure, but I want them as near alike as possible when they are introduced.

"The administration favors the principle of the proposed legislation and the differences will be worked out satisfactorily during the consideration of the bill, I am confident."

Steagall said the legislation, based on the Glass banking reform bill and his own measure guaranteeing bank deposits—both of which failed in the last congress—would be pressed for quick action.

Besides requiring banks to separate themselves from securities affiliates and increasing the minimum capital for national banks from $25,000 to $50,000, the legislation sets up a $2,000,000,000 corporation to guarantee deposits in federal reserve member banks. It would not, however, be a government guarantee. The corporation is to be based on the provision in the Glass bill for a liquidation corporation to aid closed banks.

LAMBERT KUHN, 60, BURIED AT BALTIMORE

The funeral of Lambert Kuhn 60, former Atlantan, who died Friday in Baltimore, Md., was held there Sunday afternoon. He was the father of Mrs. W. G. Schwartz, of 1725 Cornell road.

Mr. Kuhn resided in Atlanta for many years at two different times. Until 1930 he was southern representative of the Robert M. Green Soda Company, of Philadelphia, which company he represented in Baltimore. Thirty years ago Mr. Kuhn was district manager of the National Cash Register Company here. He died unexpectedly Friday at his residence. Besides Mrs. Schwartz, he is survived by his wife, a son, and two other daughters. Mrs. Schwartz left Atlanta Friday night to attend the funeral services.

ATLANTA TRENCH RATS TO ASSEMBLE TONIGHT

A special meeting of Dugout No. 40, National Order of Trench Rats, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight on the second floor of the city auditorium to consider important matters.

Trench Rats is the playground of the Disabled American Veterans and tonight's meeting will be the last before the state rendezvous, to be held in Macon May 5-6. Harry Barfield, imperial blue rodent, will be present and is expected to give some of the highlights relating to the activities of other dugouts throughout the country.

ANTLERS TO INSTALL OFFICERS WEDNESDAY

Newly-elected officers of the Antlers, organization of Atlanta Elks interested in leading and instructing boys from 15 to 21, will be installed at a meeting to be held in the Elks Home at 7 o'clock Wednesday night.

Among the members of the advisory council of the Antlers to be installed will be Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton superior court. Other council members are Dr. I. S. Etheridge, John S. McClelland, Dr. Berton L. Brooks and Barney Bernard.

Mrs. Lewis Is Saluted On Her 91st Birthday

Members of the First Christian church, where she worshipped Sunday on her 91st birthday, gave Mrs. Phebe Bell Lewis, one of the best known women of the city, the "chautauqua salute" when she appared for the morning service. The "chautauqua salute," Dr. C. R. Stauffer, the pastor, explained, calls for members of the congregation to wave white handkerchiefs when a distinguished worshipper appears.

Otherwise, Mrs. Lewis spent the day as usual. A quiet family dinner was given for her at the home of her daughters, Misses Ada Evelyn Lewis and Emma E. Lewis, at 291 Elmira place, to which a third daughter, Mrs. B. S. McCash, also of Atlanta, and other immediate members of the family were invited.

F. D. R. IS CHEERED EN ROUTE TO PICNIC FOR DAY OF REST

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today enjoyed his first full holiday since becoming president, driving in an open touring car through the rolling Virginia country to the Rapidan—where Herbert Hoover sought repose—for a picnic lunch.

With the president was Mrs. Roosevelt, their son John, Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, Secretary Ickes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau Jr. and a half dozen others to share in the outing.

The procession left the White House about 10:30 a. m., Mr. Roosevelt waving genially to the half hundred people waiting outside the grounds to witness his departure. There was a lusty cheer as he drove away, and wherever he was recognized on his jaunt shouts were raised.

The trip through Virginia's hills to the Blue Ridge mountains was made under a benign April sun.

Peach and apple trees were blooming pink and white, and the meadows were green with springtime. Evidently enjoying himself, President Roosevelt set a sedate pace through Warrenton and Culpepper to the Rapidan.

HOLMES TELLS FLOCK TO "STOP WORRYING"

An admonition to "stop worrying about having had money to spend and some to spare" was sounded by Dr. B. R. Holmes, president of Holmes Institute, in a lecture delivered before a group of farmers and other members of the First A. M. E. church at Lithonia Sunday afternoon.

"If more people would live within their incomes," he said, "and talk less about hard times it would do more to solve the economic condition than anything else. Plant and raise more food to be used in the home and on the farm and don't buy the things you can produce. Do not exchange farm life for city life with the idea of bettering your condition. The producer is always greater than the consumer."

FOREST JOB ARMY FORMING RAPIDLY

Full Force of 250,000 Expected To Be in the Field by May 15.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(UP)—The full army of 250,000 men enlisted for President Roosevelt's reforestation campaign will be in the field by May 15, Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, said tonight.

Already the federal government has raided the bread lines by offering $1 a day and board and room to men caught in the whirlpool of the depression and forced out of their normal jobs. Tonight there are 2,607 men in conditioning camps, going through preliminary training and physical examination before moving out to their work in the woods, Fechner said.

The immediate goal is 25,000 men, and as the machinery of administration speeds up the remainder of the 250,000 are expected to be recruited rapidly.

Fechner explained all these things tonight in his modest hotel room from which he directs the recruiting of the army that is part of the administration's plan to reduce the 12,000,000 wage earners who have been thrown out of work.

SPELMAN CONCERT TO OPEN EXERCISES FOR FOUNDER'S DAY

The Spelman College Glee Club will give its annual concert at 8 o'clock tonight in connection with the Founders' Day exercises. The concert will be held in Howe hall, and the public is invited. The program will include piano, violin and vocal solos, selections by the quartet and by the glee club of over 40 women's voices.

At 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon the formal Founder's Day exercises will be held in Sisters chapel, with the Rev. Willard S. Richardson, of Montclair, N. J., as speaker. Mr. Richardson was for 17 years secretary of the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Fund, and is widely known for his activities in several fields—as a prominent Baptist preacher, social worker, as director of religious activities of the University of Minnesota, and a trustee of the International Seminary, East Orange, N. J., and the International Y. M. C. A. College of Springfield, Mass.

A baseball game will be held on the north campus at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, followed by decoration of memorial tablets in Howe hall and folk games on the center campus.

MUTUAL'S DIRECTOR WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Dr. Walter A. Reiter, medical director of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company, of Newark, N. J., will arrive in Atlanta today to spend several days meeting of the company's agents and medical examiners and interpreting the company's practices in regard to medical selection of life insurance risks. Mrs. Reiter accompanies him.

Negroes Hold Citizenship Meeting, Hear Talmadge, Key, Hugh Howell

Stressing the principal qualities of good citizenship as "helping others in this time of stress," Governor Eugene Talmadge, Mayor James L. Key, Hugh Howell, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, and several leading negro educators spoke to 2,500 negroes and 500 white persons at the city auditorium Sunday afternoon on a program of "Good Citizenship" sponsored by the Citizens' League and the Colored War Veterans of America.

In addition to the speakers, singers from negro schools, the Big Bethel choir, two negro bands and other organizations took part in the program.

The keynote of the meeting was "the necessity of co-operation between all classes and races in this time of depression." Mayor Key, the first of the dignitaries to speak, said "it is difficult to be a good citizen at this time—but we must." He reviewed relief work done by the city government and asserted that 2,000,000 people had been fed here through the emergency relief committee.

Governor Talmadge, who was introduced by Mr. Howell, described his trips to the inauguration ceremonies at Washington and to Cuba.

"We cannot legislate prosperity," he said, "but we can be watchful that after prosperity comes again that we shall not tolerate sharp practices and trickery. The depression has made all of us kind to our fellow man and we must remain that way."

J. W. Dobbs, negro fraternal leader, presided at the meeting.

INSTALLMENT I.

"We announce from this pulpit that there is a promise of marriage between Ernesto Traversi of the parish of St. Christopher in Rome, and Angela Chiaromonte, the daughter of Guido Chiarmomonte, of this parish."

Angela, seated in a front pew between her father, who was a prince, and her fiance, showed no emotion at the words of Saracinesca, the subdeacon. The pale, pretty face should have shown, one would expect, elation and pleasure at this announcement of her betrothal. Yet, the girl was accepting this important change in her life in the same manner in which she would obey any other request from her father.

Madame Bernard, Angela's governess, whom the girl affectionately called Mina, sighed. She knew that marriage was the best thing for the girl. For, although her life had been a completely sheltered one, although she had lived in a safe and quiet harbor, there was within her a certain wild streak which she had inherited from her mother. Mina was glad her charge was to be secure.

As the four emerged from the church various members of the congregation clustered around them, offering congratulations. They made their way to the prince's automobile, which stood just outside the church. Angela's eyes wandered toward the end of the street, where a carnival was going on. A crowd had gathered around a man in the costume of a dancing bear. Angela stood on tiptoe in order to be able to see better. Her eyes shone with excitement and pleasure. Her father made a gesture of distaste as he saw her move unconsciously toward the crowd.

"Angela—"

The girl turned to him.

"Yes, father." Then, to Ernesto: "Look, did you ever see anything like it?"

Ernesto smiled somewhat condescendingly at her enthusiasm.

"If you please, my dear," her father said indulgently.

"Yes, father," Angela replied, reluctant, but obedient. She peeked again, slyly, at the spectacle and then preceded the others into the car. Mina sat on a seat in front of the three. The car started slowly, and Angela looked through the windows from one side to the other, watching the faces of the people who were so happy.

"They're having fun," she said enthusiastically. "Do you know what? Every day ought to be carnival day, and there ought to be music always and lots of dancing." Her voice trailed off as she noticed that neither her father nor Ernesto were paying any attention to what she was saying.

"I heard an interesting story the other day," Ernesto said, disregarding Angela entirely. "It seems that a friend of father's. . . ." But he did not finish the story. For at that moment there was the sound of a resounding crash as the car was hit from behind. Ernesto was jolted back against the cushions with the others. Enrico, the chauffeur, leaped from the car and ran around to the rear. He saw a small, dilapidated automobile filled to overflowing with officers in town for the fiesta. At the wheel sat Lieutenant Giovanni Severi. This man grinned and waved affably and all the soldiers yelled:

"Bravo! Bravo!"

Seeing the chauffeur Severi jumped down and felt tenderly the front part of his broken-down machine.

"What do you think you're doing?" Severi countered with a triumphant grin at the other soldiers. "I guess that's telling him, eh, boys?" His fellow officers cheered as he continued to berate Enrico: "Why, people like you ought to be arrested—bumping into me like that—"

"Bumping into you?" Enrico exclaimed in surprise.

"Yes, me—a representative of His Majesty's army!" Giovanni answered with a flourish. This brought more cheers from the soldiers.

"You bumped into me!" Enrico reiterated.

"Of course I did. I haven't any brakes! Where's the owner of this car?" The prince appeared.

"What's the matter here, Enrico?"

"Look what you've done to the dearest, sweetest automobile that ever lived," Giovanni indicated his car.

"Drive on, Enrico," the prince said quietly.

"This automobile belonged to my mother," Giovanni said tearfully "and it belonged to her mother—and if you think—" He suddenly noticed that Angela was watching him through the back window of the car—"If you think—say—" He walked around to the side of the car, looked in, and smiled at Angela. "Good morning, Signorina. What's the matter? Did somebody bump into you?"

Angela smiled at him sympathetically as Ernesto reached over and pulled down the shade of the car. Suddenly the car pulled away. Lieutenant Severi emitted a low, long whistle when the natives informed him whom he had been joshing. He glanced thoughtfully at the disappearing car. Enrico stopped the car in front of an imposing edifice of great size. Somlre magnificence was the keynote throughout the halls and large rooms. Prince Chiaromonte looked at his watch as the party entered the reception hall. "We have about an hour, Ernesto."

Angela looked up in surprise. "Oh, aren't you staying for dinner?" she asked her fiance.

"I have to go back to Rome on the one-nineteen. Sorry," Ernesto told her.

"Oh, so am I. Try and miss the train if you can."

"You won't believe it, but I've never missed a train in my life," Ernesto said proudly.

"Haven't you, really? Neither have I—but I'd love to, some time. Lets miss lots of trains after we're married."

When her father and Ernesto left the room, Angela went over to a window. Mina followed her. "They seem to be having such a good time out there, Mina."

The governess sniffed contemptuously. "They're probably all intoxicated by now—just like the soldiers who bumped into us," she said.

"Oh, I hope he wasn't intoxicated. He looked awfully nice. I wonder what it's like to be intoxicated?"

"I'm sure I don't wnow," Mina replied with dignity.

"It must be fun," Angela giggled.

"Angela!"

Angela closed her eyes and took one or two deep breaths, then almost regretfully she came back into the room, took a comb and began to comb her hair. "I'm going to miss this little room of mine, Mina."

"You're going to miss a lot of things."

"Yes—you and father. I'm going to miss father something awful."

"You're very lucky to be marrying a man like Ernesto."

"Yes, he's really a lot like father, isn't he?" She had rearranged her hair. "How's this, Mina?"

"You look like a what-do-you-call-it."

"Do I really?" Angela giggled again. She examined herself in the mirror. "I don't suppose Ernesto would want me to look like a 'what-do-you-call-it,' would he?" She posed as though she might be a chorus girl. "Ooolala—is that the way they act?"

"Angela, what's got into you? First you want to get intoxicated and then you want to—"

"I don't know. It's that music outside, I suppose." She kicked her leg in a dance and noticed that she had a run in her stocking. "Oh, bother! Look, Mina—my new stockings. Get a needle and thread, will you?" She got on the edge of the bed and held out her leg. Mina took a needle and thread from the sewing basket, took Angela's foot in her lap and began to sew. Angela wiggled her foot back and forth in time to the music.

"Hold still," Mina admonished.

"Listen to the music—wouldn't you like to be out there?"

"Will you hold still?" Mina said again as Angela wiggled her feet.

"Mina, do you know what—I dreamed about him again last night."

"Who's 'him'?"

"The man I dream about. His name was Orlando this time. That's very romantic, isn't it? He was on a white horse with black spots."

Camp Highland Committee Plans 2-Group Program for Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Hal Hentz, chairman of the Y. W. C. A. Camp Highland committee, announces interesting new features, beginning with the special 'teen-age program from June 16 to July 28 and continuing through the adult camp July 28 to August 6.

According to Mrs. Hentz, in this year when vacation funds are limited and yet the need for out-door recreation and rest is more vital than ever before, the Y. W. C. A. will experiment with the two camp programs in order to more fully meet the needs and desires of girls and women of all ages and varying tastes.

In mapping out plans for the adolescent and adult camps, Mrs. Hentz and the camp committee displayed excellent judgment in selecting Miss Anne Pridmore, Girls Reserve secretary, as director of the first season, and Miss Flora Hatcher, Business Girls' secretary, as director of the last two weeks. As the season for younger girls opens first, Miss Pridmore is busy selecting a capable camp staff. Talented girls from the various colleges will serve as counselors and from the 80 applications already received, 12 junior assistants will be announced early next week and the lists have been closed.

Judging by the enthusiasm with which girls clamor to go out to camp during the week-ends, Highland will be a popular spot throughout the summer and fall. This week-end Miss Pridmore chaperoned Girl Reserves from Bass, O'Keefe, Murphy, Joe Brown and Hoke Smith Junior High schools; April 22-23 she goes out with Commercial, Girls and Druid Hills High school girls; April 29 has been reserved by the Atlanta Bird Club; May 5 Girl Reserves from the Good-Will Center will enjoy an outing, and May 6-7 Rainbow Club girls will be at camp. Other week-ends in May and June will be signed rapidly by various groups.

Members of the Y. W. C. A. are invited to hear Paul Harris Jr., director of Youth Movement for World Recovery, who speaks in the "Y" auditorium, 37 Auburn avenue, this evening, at 8:30 o'clock. Mr. Harris formerly connected with the National Council for Prevention of War, is a gifted speaker and his wealth of experience in meeting with young people in the United States and Europe proves highly interesting and indicates the growing determination of young men and women to stand fearlessly for world peace and international friendships.

Mrs. Charles Hoke, chairman of the house committee, announces that the spacious "Y" auditorium which seats over 500 people, may be rented for a nominal fee to organized groups. Anyone wishing to rent the auditorium for parties, lectures or dances should communicate with Miss Clara Nolen, general secretary, Walnut 8961.

St. Luke's Church Circle Plans Russian Cabaret Party April 21

Featuring the Russian theme throughout, the Russian Cabaret party to be given by members of St. Helena's Circle Woman's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Episcopal church Friday evening, April 21, will furnish a unique form of entertainment. Mrs. Hal Davison, a native Russian, will act as hostess and will appear in a colorful costume from the land of her birth. Mrs. Peyre Gaillard is president of the circle, Mrs. Ely Boylston is secretary, and Mrs. A. B. Greaves is treasurer.

A Cossack in striking costume will be stationed at the door of St. Luke's tea room on Peachtree street, which will be transformed into an appropriate setting, the walls to be lined with Russian panels painted by students at Georgia Tech. The menu will be composed of savory Russian dishes prepared under the direction of Mrs. Davison.

Hugh Hodgson, well-known southern musician and organist at St. Luke's church, will be in charge of the program of Russian music, and will be assisted by Ben Blinov, an Emory University student and native of Russia. Russian dances will be given and a group of young women of the church who will serve will be dressed in appropriate costumes. Tickets at 75c each may be purchased from members of the circle or at the church each day from 10 to 2 o'clock or by telephoning Mrs. Gaillard at Hemlock 2101-R.

Official hostesses include six of the past presidents of the Music Club: Mesdames Armond Carroll, Charles E. Dowman, DeLos Hill, Cliff Hatcher, Wilmer Moore and Walter Bedard. Two other former presidents, Mrs. John Doig and Mrs. George A. Wight, are no longer resident in Atlanta.

Hostesses for succeeding days of the campaign will be chosen to include a distinguished group of charter members for Tuesday; on Wednesday, the past and present program chairmen; Thursday, those who have served as secretaries of the club; Friday, a group of members who were especially active in the early years of the club, and Saturday, the closing day of the campaign, Mrs. Smith, the president, will have at campaign headquarters her entire executive board.

Following the national plan of the Civic Music Association, with which the Atlanta Music Club is affiliated, the local music club holds annually at this season a one-week membership campaign, whereby a nominal subscribing membership fee is obtained and budgeted to finance the club's activities and concert course for the ensuing year. One week only the books of the club are open for the enrollment of new members and payment of annual dues. With the close of the week Saturday, April 15, the membership lists will be closed until another year.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I have been married for 13 years to a good woman. For the first 10 years I made money in the grocery business. In the last three years I have lost a great deal and now can hadly support my wife and two children. She is very unhappy, thinks I ought to provide more than I do. It is true that there is very little money to give her, but we are fortunate in that we have plenty to eat. Every week she makes a scene, tells me that she wishes I would go off, that she would be better off without me. Her people do not like me and encourage her to find fault with me. I owe lots of bills that I cannot pay, but I am raked over the coals just as if I were keeping back money from her. I am worried to death all the time and seldom get anything but complaints from the wife that ought to be a comfort to a man at a time like this.

She could go about and see her friends, even if she hasn't money for amusements, but she chooses to sit at home and fret, then meet me in the evening with a long face and a cross greeting. She seldom speaks except to find fault with me. Please tell me what is a man to do under these conditions?

A WORRIED GROCER.

Answer: There is little a man can do under these circumstances but grin and bear the pain of being married to a selfish, unsympathetic, unwomanly wife. There are few creatures more deserving of scorn and contempt than the wife here described. A woman without tenderness, a woman whose pity is not touched by the sight of her husband wrestling with debts that he cannot pay, worried by responsibilities that he can hardly carry alone, yet refusing to put her shoulder to the wheel and help him carry them, she is not worthy the name of wife.

It's doubtful if any woman who hasn't had to support herself by her own labor can get any true conception of what it means to be responsible for food and clothes for a family. Certainly she cannot fully understand the difficulties in the way of a man's making money in these days when the most astute business men are confounded by conditions. But with that feminine prescience, born of love, she should be able to enter sympathetically into the mind and heart of her harried husband and give him not only consolation but moral support, and so make him feel that he can lean upon her and unburden himself to her.

She should either sustain this relation to him, or if that is impossible, she should get out and work and help him provide for the family. Assuming that his debts were contracted in connection with his business or in connection with his family, they are her debts as much as his and if they cannot be paid, the least she can do is to work hard or make every possible sacrifice of her costly personal pleasures, and make them cheerfully.

But over and above the practical aspects of the case there are other factors, just as important. The influence of a scolding, censorious wife holding her husband up to the scorn of the children will necessarily bring about tragic results in the lives of those children. They will come to regard their father as a slacker, as one not worthy of respect, although he may be doing his utmost to provide for his family. They will grow up to think of marriage as an arrangement whereby a man agrees to furnish clothes and groceries for his wife and family and should he get to the point where he can't furnish these, according to the wife's expectations and demands, he is to be kicked about, and finally out. They will lose faith in the enduring power of affection and have their dispositions soured. All because a woman, their mother, didn't have the moral character to stand the strain of poverty and the courage to keep her spirits up in the midst of hardship.

Oh, the pity of it, that any wife can stand by and see her husband broken on the wheel of life without offering him so much as the traditional cup of cold water, which is kindness, without offering to bind up his wounds with sympathy, without offering him the assurance of her love and loyalty. The time comes with many a man these days when only the sustaining and consoling love of some good woman will suffice for his needs; when only the high hope and unflagging spirit of a courageous woman will keep him in heart to struggle against insuperable difficulties. And if she fails him there is little left to incite him to further effort.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Atlanta D. A. R. Celebrates Birthday On April 15

Members of Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., will celebrate the forty-second birthday anniversary of the chapter on Saturday afternoon, April 15, at Craigie House. The local chapter is the second oldest in the national society, Chicago being first, and was organized on April 15, 1891. Mrs. Martha Berrien Duncan and Miss Junia McKinley being organizing regents, and Mrs. Harry Jackson, the first regent.

Mrs. James Dawkins Cromer, the present regent, will be unable to attend, as she leaves Friday for Washington, D. C., to attend the Continental Congress of the national society, which convenes in the national capital on April 16. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Frances Brown Chase and Miss Virginia Hardin, delegates, and Mrs. George Hillyer Jr., an associate member of the Atlanta chapter and the regent of the Continental Dames' chapter of the district.

Mrs. Drury Powers, first vice regent, cannot attend on account of illness in her family, so Mrs. Thomas H. Morgan, former vice regent and the incumbent chaplain, will preside. The program will be presided over by Mrs. John M. Slaton, former regent and charter member of the national society, and she will cut the birthday cake, presented to the chapter by Mrs. Cromer. The past regents have been invited to take part in the program and the following have accepted: Mesdames Francis C. Block, A. McD. Wilson, Thomas H. Morgan, James Osgood Wynn, Charles F. Rice, Elmer R. Kirk, Bun Wylie, Lucius McConnell, John William Smith, Eli Thomas, Thomas Coke Mell. The music will be in charge of Mrs. C. V. LeCraw and an original poem dedicated to the chapter will be read by Mrs. Robert Blackburn.

A nominating committee to select new officers for the coming year consists of Mesdames Thomas H. Morgan, J. W. Smith, W. L. Barnes, Charles Love and J. O. Wynn, and they will make report at the annual meeting in May. The committee was elected at the March meeting. Preceding the program a short business meeting will be held and reports will be given by Mrs. J. W. Smith and Mrs. Charles Love, delegates. Mesdames Bun Wylie, Max Land and Howard McCall, former state regents, will bring reports also from the conference. The final reports of the chairmen who did so much to make the Atlanta conference a wonderful success, will be given. Invitation is extended to visiting D. A. R.'s to attend the birthday party and the informal tea which will follow the program.

Three Ways To Use Left-Over Ham

BY FLORENCE La GANKE.

Nancy planned to have a baked ham for Easter. She knew that her small family could not possibly eat all the ham at one meal, nor even at three or four. Before she purchased the whole ham, therefore, she searched through cook books for the various ways in which she could use up left-over ham.

She found three ways which sounded extra good to her.

First, the baked ham was cut into small pieces. A can of rather coarse kerneled—which means inexpensive—corn was opened and emptied into a frying pan containing a small amount of butter. The ham and corn simmered over the fire for some time. Bits of bacon might have been added, so could strips of green pepper or of canned red pepper. A generous sprinkling of peper and salt with just enough salt and a suspicion of sugar to bring out the flavor was added at serving time.

For another dish the ragged pieces and ends of ham were ground, added to mashed potatoes. A raw egg was stirred in. The mixture was shaped into small balls and rolled in egg and crumbs. The balls were fried in deep fat until golden brown.

And still another dish—sizable pieces of ham were cut into rounds. Over each one went some sauted sweetbreads. On top of the sweetbreads went a broiled mushroom.

Nancy planned to serve a Hollandaise sauce with this dish. A rich, thin cream sauce could be used. And the ham could be placed on rounds of toast, but this is not recommended.

Then Nancy found it advisable to saute the ham lightly before she put the sauted and browned sweetbreads on top of the rounds. This made the whole dish piping hot at serving time.

"Dinners that are different" is the title of a leaflet which will help you. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Tomorrow Nancy Page will present another of her beautiful quilt patterns.

Crackers Defeat Barons, 2 to 1; Leave for Knoxville Today

A Deep Sea Diver Comes Up To Ride in the Boat Awhile

Those Atlanta Crackers move out tonight for Knoxville where on Tuesday afternoon they will start a five-game winning streak, the last three of which will be played in the Ponce de Leon park before the admiring eyes of the home folks.

There is nothing like confidence. And in addition your reporter is one who does not subscribe to the general opinion that this is to be a fine race with eight clubs in it.

There will be no more than five clubs in the race and perhaps not more than four. Knoxville will be in there just to make out the eight-club league unless Bill Terry speeds up with the helping hands.

In fact such is my confidence that I hope Your Uncle Wilbur Robinson takes along bond money with which to bail Charley Moore and his noble lads out of the jug. It is against the law to go around taking candy from children. And frankly I am a little bit ashamed of Those Crackers that they should travel around the country jumping on the weak and the innocent. It would not surprise me one whit to have the Knoxville constabulary (and very tough constabulary they are) jug the Atlanta team for assaulting the weak and the wretched.

The Birmingham ball club is not likely to go anywhere at all and that in a very great hurry. The Baron management was about ready to call it a day last July but staggered through. One reads what new blood has been pumped into those Barons. It is to be hoped that Cousin Zippo Newman and Bob Phillips will stand by for more and better transfusions. The Barons do not look like a contender.

The same goes for Little Rock although the Little Rocks look better than the Birminghams. But the Barons, the Travelers and the Smokeys are the Little Orphan Annies of the league. And it looks like a tough summer on orphans.

After peering through the smoke at Sulphur Dell in Nashville, trying to see the Vols in action and getting an occasional glimpse of them only to regret it, it is difficult to believe that the Vols will have a ball club which will be a real winner. They do say, however, that the charges of Charley Dressen have it this summer.

The New Orleans boys look like a first. And this will be very gratifying to the many friends which Larry Gilbert has about the league. The Memphis club is always good. Someone should write a story some day about the Memphis club. They have the smartest organization in minor league baseball at Memphis.

And if our noble Crackers get the two pitchers which are mentioned now and then, they will oust the Pelicans from first place.

I would not have my friend Tommy Taylor at Knoxville, nor Harry Strohm at Little Rock nor Clyde Milan at Birmingham, feel badly about all this enthusiasm. It is not often that a deep sea diver gets to come up and ride around in the boats. And after several years of walking around, submerged with the Crackers, this is a gladsome spring. The Crackers are starting out on a five-game winning streak tomorrow afternoon. Your old partner here is going to make hay while the sun shines.

Does the buzzing of the pennant bee disturb you? You will pardon the bee, I'm sure.

MR. MOORE'S SOLO—IT ALL DEPENDS ON YOU.

One of the features of the opening day at Knoxville will be a solo by Mr. Charley Moore, the Cracker manager. Mr. Moore will line up Rookies Freddie Sington and Duck McKee at home plate and sing that little ballad, "It All Depends on You."

Were it not for the fact that Knoxville is in the Yankee section of the state of Tenn-O-See, Mr. Moore would render it as, "It all depends on you-all." But he does not care to offend the northern ears of the customers and will not speak in the vernacular.

There is no doubt but that the two Cracker rookies are on a very hot spot. They have got to make good. Mr. Moore has not attempted to carry them along. He thinks they are good. He has not asked the newspapermen to chill down the tones of their publicity anent Sington nor has he attempted to keep from the lads the fact that a very great deal depends on them.

ALL FACE SAME TEST.

It is true that the two Cracker rookies face a severe test. The rival pitchers will study them and try to find the batting weakness which will nullify the power of the two.

And if it is found the word will sweep the league within 24 hours. Every pitcher will know what the two can and can't hit. On the face of it this seems a very rough and rocky road to travel. Yet it is nothing that every ball player does not face. Sington and McKee face no test that others before them have not faced.

Moore knows this and is wise in taking the course he has. He has given them an opportunity such as every ball player of promise has. And he is confident they will make good.

ERRORLESS BASEBALL.

Atlanta played errorless baseball in beating Birmingham Sunday in Montgomery. And while I regret to see my old pals going off into another state to indulge in the terrible sin of a ball game, I am glad they made no errors. I am sure, though, that it did everyone a lot of harm to be out sinning in the fresh air. We permit no such thing in Atlanta.

The Crackers have made less than a half dozen errors in the exhibition games this spring, for a very remarkable record. The spring infields are usually very, very erratic. The one of last spring often gave very fine exhibitions of juggling.

The two double plays of Sunday also indicated that the Crackers are going ahead to lead the league in double plays. Rarely has a spring infield functioned as has the Cracker foursome of this spring.

A GOOD, LOUD CHORTLE.

Let's all arise and join in a good, loud chortle, as the season begins. It has been so long since Atlanta fans could chortle. And if it develops that our nine has a fatal weakness it will be too late. All together, nine rousing chortles for the five-game winning streak.

Giants Close Out With 4 to 1 Victory

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—The New York Giants wound up their spring exhibition baseball series with the Detroit Tigers today and chalked up a 4-1 victory. The Giants won the series, six games to four.

Carl Hubbell's airtight pitching and Johnny Vergez's seventh home run of the spring season featured the battle. Hubbell gave only four hits in seven innings and struck out seven.

BARRETT LEAVES.

Bob Barrett, Atlanta boy and last-year third baseman of the champion Newark team in the International league, left Atlanta yesterday to join the Jersey City club, with which he has signed. He was recently made a free agent by Newark. Bernard (Mike) Kelly, former Sally league pilot, is manager of the Jersey City team.

Piedmont Women Start Tourney

The Piedmont Park women's golf association match play tournament will start at 9 a. m. today with 18 holes of qualifying. One match a day will be played until the tournament is completed.

Matches in the "chicken and bean" tournament will be completed today. There will be a dinner at 7 o'clock tonight at the Standard club. Captain D. H. Therrell's team was leading at the end of Sunday's play.

AMERICAN OPENS ON WEDNESDAY WITH NEW FACES

But There's Only Dim Hope of Stopping Yanks.

By Paul Mickelson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—The American league, an acute sufferer of one-sided pennant races for six disappointing years, opens up its 1933 campaign Wednesday with a record-breaking number of new faces and changes but with only a dim hope of stopping the rush of New York Yankees.

Abandoning their reticence to help each other in a somewhat desperate attempt to match the National league with a close race, the club owners bought, sold and traded with exceptional fervor during the winter and fall. Thirteen regulars, seven of them pitchers, were swapped and the minors were raided so successfully that approximately three dozen rookies of great promise were obtained.

Through all the changes, however, the managerial front remained unchanged with one exception, Walter Johnson. The "Big Train" was replaced as pilot at Washington by the youthful Joe Cronin. Several others, reported on the ragged edge after the Yankees had mopped up last year, were back with new hopes.

SOLONS BETTER.

The great change in personnel was effected at Washington, which finished a poor third to Babe Ruth and his mates in 1932. The Senators obtained Catcher Luke Sewell, Outfielder "Goose" Goslin and Pitchers Earl Whitehill, Walter Stewart and Jack Russell in important trades with Detroit, St. Louis and Cleveland.

Chicago, given a break at last, ranked next in changes. Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and George "Mule" Haas were purchased from the Athletics to plug wide gaps in the infield and outfield. Ed Durham, a sensation of the spring camp pitching, was obtained along with Infielder Hal Rhyne from the Red Sox.

Connie Mack, back building another machine with youth, has a new outfield in Cramer, Coleman and Finney, with Higgins at third. The veteran leader of the Athletics is cheered by the showing of his youngsters.

The Yankees will stand on their 1932 world's championship lineup except for a possible change at short with Bill Werber replacing Frank Crosetti.

BOSTON INSPIRED.

Boston, under a new ownership and inspired by the baseball leadership of Eddie Collins, probably will start with Mulleavy at shortstop, Hodapp at second and Seeds and Fothergill—all former White Sox—in the outfield.

Detroit won't have very many changes with the exception of Ervin Fox, a great looking rookie, in the outfield and Marvin Owen, another minor league find, at third base. Charles Fischer, who worked with Washington and St. Louis last year, and Fred Marberry, with Washington in 1932, on the pitching staff.

St. Louis fans will see several new faces, including Outfielders Sam West and Carl Reynolds, obtained in the trade with Washington, and former Senator Pitchers Lloyd Brown and Dick Coffman. Art Scharein probably will be at third.

Spencer behind the plate and Knickerbocker, a great find from Toledo, will be at short for Cleveland.

GRANT SEEDED IN NORTH-SOUTH

PINEHURST, N. C., April 9.—(AP)—Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, semi-finalist in last year's national, was seeded No. 1 tonight for the north and south tennis tournament opening tomorrow.

Frank X. Shields, of New York, was seeded second with Lester Stoeffen, of Los Angeles, third; Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., fourth; George M. Lott, of Chicago, fifth; Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, sixth; J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., seventh, and Berkeley Bell, of New York, eighth.

Sutter, Stoeffen and Lott were given first-round byes. Shields will play Joe Grier, of Charlotte, in tomorrow's opening match. Grant will meet Herbert Vail, of Glen Cove, L. I.

Other first-round matches include: Hall vs. H. A. Harris, University of North Carolina.

Bell vs. A. R. Croom, Wake Forest.

Mangin vs. Howard M. Moss, of Atlanta.

Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, Canadian Davis cup star, vs. L. D. Jones, University of North Carolina.

RACE PROGRAM OPENS AT LAKEWOOD

HORSES TO RUN IN FIVE RACES, STARTING AT 3

Fifth Event and G. M. A. Band Added to Fine Schedule

By Roy White.

Five races, starting at 3 o'clock this afternoon, will formally open Atlanta's week of running horse races at Lakewood Park, sponsored by the Southeastern Fair Association. The races are the first to be attempted here in many years and, with the exception of the wagering, which will be barred, will compare favorably with others in the southern states during the past few weeks.

As an added attraction the fifth race was placed on the schedule late Saturday afternoon and the Georgia Military Academy band has been secured to give a preliminary 30-minute concert and to play during the intermissions.

FINAL WORKOUT.

More than 2,000 spectators visited the park Sunday afternoon and saw the last workout in preparation for today's races. Many of the spectators also milled in and about the stables where the horses were being prepared for the races.

The Debutante Club will attend today's program.

Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, Sunday received word that another shipment of horses will arrive today or Tuesday and will participate in the Friday and Saturday races.

Following today's opening there will be no races on Tuesday, but Governor's Day will be observed on Wednesday when another fine program is being completed. Atlanta Day will be held on Friday and Derby Day will be observed on Saturday.

FAST TIMES.

In the preliminary workouts during the past few days and despite the heavy track, the thoroughbreds have been clocked in unusually good times and some fast riding will be seen this afternoon.

Records for the various lengths for the Lakewood track will be established in today's races and that fact alone is certain produce some keen competition among the horsemen.

Crowd of 24,000 Sees Robins Lose

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 9.—(AP) Charley Ruffing and Herb Pennock limited the Brooklyn Dodgers to five hits and the New York Yankees won their seventh successive exhibition baseball victory today, 3-1.

It was Joe Judge day at Ebbets field and the former Washington first baseman showed his appreciation for the turnout of 24,000 fans by lining a home run over the right field wall in the fifth inning for Brooklyn's only run. Walter Beck, rookie right-hander, was the victim of the first two Yankee runs in the third inning when Babe Ruth sliced a double past third base with a pair of teammates on base.

College Game Here Is Getting New Deal

By Jack Troy.

College baseball in Atlanta is also getting a new deal this spring, if response that greeted the opening Tech-Auburn series Friday and Saturday means anything.

Large crowds of collegians, augmented by other fans, went out to the Rose Bowl to see the Tigers and Jackets play on both days.

A great closing rally by Tech in the first game, featuring the strategy of Coach Bobby Dodd in the use of pinch-hitters, undoubtedly was responsible for the larger turnout Saturday. There was quite a number of fair young maidens in the audience.

The first game, which Tech won, 4 to 3, was one of the best games of college baseball ever played here. It was close and well-played all the way.

CRAVE ACTION.

Saturday's contest also was a humdinger, evolving into a long-range hitting, free-scoring affair. This apparently was what the collegian spectators wanted to see, for they kept the welkin ringing from start to finish.

Auburn capitalized on smart fielding, hitting in the pinches, and Tech errors to win, 11 to 7, and gain an even break for the initial series.

One of the most unusual plays ever injected into the throbbing play of the college game here was the scoring of two runs on a perfect squeeze bunt by Auburn.

McMahan was on third and Hitchcock on second with one out when Tommie Kimbrell, the old saxophone player who appropriately plays the hot corner, came to bat in the first.

Kimbrell placed a perfect bunt between pitcher and first and while the Jacket infielders were getting Kimbrell out, both McMahan and Hitchcock, the great shortstop, raced across home plate. It was smart base-running on the part of Hitchcock.

HITCHCOCK HITLESS.

Hitchcock, All-American halfback, went hitless in the two-game series, although he was hitting the ball hard, but his fielding was great.

There was something else the new deal showed. Tubby Walton is the umpire for as many college games as it is possible for him to work.

Tubby's antics behind the plate, such as when he is nicked by a foul tip and his running fire of comment on balls and strikes appeals to both the spectators and the college players.

College boys are jealous of their base hits as a matter of fact, but they never find any fault with the way Tubby calls them. When an umpire can make a heavy hitter who has just been called out or swung on the third strike, go away smiling, he has to be good. That's Tubby Walton. (As if you didn't already know.)

The next games bring together Oglethorpe and Tech Friday and Saturday at the Rose Bowl in the initial series for the city title.

Both teams are much improved over last year and the two games promise some excellent baseball, liberally sprinkled with color.

Rookies Sington, McKee Hold Fate of Crackers

Weis, Question Mark, Is Expected To Come Through; Moore Pleased With Staff.

By Jimmy Jones.

The Crackers, by the declaration of their own manager, Charles A. Moore, will have several question marks in their lineup when they open the Southern league season tomorrow at Knoxville. There are several aspects of the team's play that are not at all conclusive on prima facie evidence, but Moore, like others, is inclined to believe that taking things by and large, the Crackers are a pretty fair ball club.

"If a manager started a season with a team about which there were no doubts, there would be no use in playing the season," Moore very aptly pointed out. The boss of the Crackers is a man who likes to start with a club and keep it fairly intact throughout the season. He doesn't believe in the feasibility of wholesale changing, especially after the schedule is begun.

There are, however, some "ifs" in the Cracker layout that challenge even the genius of Moore.

A great deal of the team's success hinges on just how Freddy Sington and Duck McKee, the two rookies, come through in left and center, respectively. They look like good young ball players right now and Moore quite boldly made up his mind to start with them several weeks ago.

WEIS ANOTHER.

John Arthur Weis, the bald and experienced rightfielder, is another question mark on the landscape in view of his off-season at Louisville last year, but Weis' record shows that he has been a good ball player over a 10-year period and that every other year he has had a bumper season. If he approached anything like his form at Birmingham in 1931, he will be one of the team's strongest links.

There is some doubt about the Cracker pitching staff, where a trio of seer and seasoned righthanders, Bob Hasty, Climax Blethen and Andy Messenger, and the wee, sometimes brilliant, sometimes erratic Bunny Hearn, have been renominated as starters. The only additions have been Theodore Kleinhans, an experienced Class B lefthander from the Cardinal chain and Max Butcher, a rugged young righthander, in whom Manager Moore sees ultimate effectiveness.

Moore is willing to essay a gamble on this staff. It is the kind of staff that gives his talents as a handler of pitchers full play. His argument in his pitchers' behalf is, that while they might not compose the strongest staff individually in the league, it has done very well indeed in the dozen-odd games with big league and Class AA clubs this spring.

CREDITABLE SHOWING.

"Outside of the early games when I was experimenting with young pitchers, we have not been beaten badly by any of these clubs, Moore pointed out. In fact, the Crackers made such a good showing in their spring games that tributes were paid the club by Joe Cronin, of Washington; Mike Kelly, of Minneapolis, and Jewell Ens, who had charge of the Cincinnati team here. After all, a Southern league team is not supposed to beat these higher class clubs consistently. The Crackers might have pulled something of a lese majeste in drubbing Minneapolis, Association champs twice; Columbus, runner-up in the Association, and Washington, reputedly one of the American league's strongest contenders, twice.

"While our hitting as a unit has far from satisfied me, I had rather see a good ball club start slowly and finish strong, than the reverse," Moore stated. Most of the club's hitting has been done by youngsters—Sington, McKee, Neisler and Laskowski.

Yet there is an excellent reason to believe that such players as Phillips, Rollings, Susko, Dashiell and Chatham will start busting the ball on the nose in their customary form when the old bell rings.

"My experience has been that players of this type always play better ball after the exhibitions are over and they get into the swing of the season," Moore asserted.

HORNSBY.

HORNSBY IS OUT FOR TWO WEEKS

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, stormy figure of baseball, will be out of the St. Louis Cardinal lineup for at least two weeks, Dr. Robert Hyland, club surgeon, said here today.

An injury to his Achilles tendon has cropped up several times during the training period but he thought he had conquered it until the first of the exhibition games in Florida.

Last Monday the "Rajah" was sent to St. Louis and placed under the care of Dr. Hyland.

Tubby To Referee Lakewood Bouts

The fans are due some real laughs on the opening of the amateur boxing bouts at Lakewood park Friday night, May 5, as Tubby Walton, Atlanta's funniest man, has agreed to bring his big bodyguard, Frank Monroe, and referee. This will be a treat for the fans, as Tubby is out to do his stuff. He claims he is in a class by himself as a referee. Some of the late entries are William Campbell, Marion McCart, Homer Wilkins, Howard Allums, Ed Austin, Harrell Rakestraw, Jimmie Fitch, Harrell Segars, Frankie Pearl, Speedy Pratt, James Rainwater, Lawrence Golden, Philip Boling, Jasper Harris, Jimmie Sutherland, Lee Stanford, J. R. Johnston, Quillian Jones, Bill Herndon, Henry Wolf, Bill Light, Phil Carpenter, A. A. U. light-heavy champ in 1931; Frank Adams, New York state heavyweight champion. Some of the old guard are Tommy Phillips, Glenn Lawson, Bill Pope, Jason Dickson, Paul Dent, Leon Garvin, Don Zuber, Warren Wilson, Sam Cowan and lots of others. All who wish to enter can do so by getting in touch with Promoter Buice at Ring Side cafe, 12 Forsyth street, southwest.

Wagner Wrestles Crusselle Tonight

Action is assured wrestling followers tonight, when Promoter F. P. Owens presents another of his weekly wrestling cards at the Howell Mill Athletic Club. The first match will start promptly at 8:15 o'clock. In the feature match, scheduled for a one-hour, best-two-out-of-three falls affair, Bill Crusselle, one of the most promising of the younger wrestlers of this section, is in for some tough wrestling when he meets the formidable Eddie Wagner, ex-navy champ.

Chief Lakeside, South Dakota Indian, who made a hit with the fans last week, returns to meet Dink Almand, of Almand Park, in the semi-windup match, slated for a two out of three falls, one-hour limit match. Wesley Brownlee meets tough opposition when he tangles with Bill Ward, of Marietta, in a one-hour, three-falls match. Tickets are on sale at the McDonald Pharmacy. Prices are: Ringside seats, 25 cents and 15 cents general admission.

Moore To Start For Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 9.—(AP)—Walter Cazen, Class B, outfielder, and Edward Edelen, rookie pitcher, were turned back to Washington today by the Chattanooga baseball club of the Southern association.

Manager Bert Niehoff announced that Scrappy Moore, released by Birmingham a few days ago, will open in center field for the Lookouts Tuesday at Nashville and that either Alex McColl or Leon Pettitt will be his opening-day pitcher. John Mihalic will start at second.

The squad will be cut to the limit tomorrow. Fred Eichrodt and Johnny Cummings, Class A outfielders; Joe Woodard and Luis Gomez, Class B infielders; Joe Bush, rookie catcher, and Earl Washington rookie pitcher, are slated to be either cut adrift or suspended.

BROWNS AVENGE PAST DEFEATS, WIN CITY TITLE

And With Victory, Beer Returns to Sportsman's Park.

ST. LOUIS, April 9.—(AP)—The Browns revenged themselves on the Cardinals for a double defeat last year by winning the second consecutive game in the city series here today, 2 to 1, after taking yesterday's encounter, 7 to 3.

And with winning the city championship, the Browns also brought beer back to Sportsman's park. The beverage was served in the sandwich stands.

CUBS LOSE.

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—Rapping Pat Malone with vigor in the third, fifth and sixth innings, the Chicago White Sox beat the Cubs, 12 to 6, today to win the spring series, three games to one.

Eddie Durham pitched good ball for the American leaguers but Paul Gregory was wild in the final inning and the Bruins made four runs.

SENATORS WIN.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—The Washington Senators made it two in a row over the Buffalo International leaguers today by an 8-to-1 score.

Alphonse Thomas, taking his big pitching test after an arm operation last fall, came through six innings with only one opposition run chalked up against him and errors by Schulte helped to make this.

REDS VICTORS.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 9.—(AP) Cincinnati's Reds swept their two-day exhibition series with the Cleveland Indians by winning today's game, 5 to 4, in 10 innings.

A costly error by Bill Cissell plus timely hitting by the Reds helped the Cincinnatians in the third inning to four runs off Wesley Ferrell, who hurled the first eight innings for the Tribe.

PIRATES BEAT BLUES.

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—(AP)—Tony Piet's looping single into right center field in the ninth inning drove two mates home this afternoon and enabled the Pittsburgh Pirates to defeat the Kansas City Blues, 6 to 5.

Tris Speaker's team put up a nine-inning battle, making 12 hits off Smith and Kramer, Buccaneer hurlers, including four doubles. Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop, with three hits, including two two-baggers, was leading hitter.

RUSSIAN CHAMP IS BIG RASSLER

One of the really "big" men of wrestling, Ivan Vacturoff, Russian champion, who tips the scales at 235 pounds, comes to Atlanta Tuesday night to take on Blue Sun Jennings, Cherokee Indian, in the feature two-hour match of Henry Weber's weekly card.

The vast majority of the professional grapplers weigh in at between 195 and 220 pounds, but there are a few of the "super-dreadnaughts" who have won distinction, among them Leo Pinetzki (245), Hans Steinke (235), Tiny Roebuck (230), Ed (Strangler) Lewis (230) and Vacturoff.

There are those who argue that any poundage in excess of 220 is more of a handicap than a help, but these five big boys have done well for themselves and Vacturoff's record compares favorably with those of the others. The powerful Russian has shown great improvement of late and now rates well up in the long list of bone-breaking gentry doing business in the United States.

It will be interesting to observe the effect of the new rules just passed by the boxing commission and prohibiting the use of the "rope strangle," knees, clinched fists and promiscuous kicking, upon the semi-final bout Tuesday. Both Brunowicz, Polish champion, and Tom Marvin, Osage Indian, are firm believers in the rough stuff, and their enforced reformation should prove a highly diverting spectacle.

Tickets for the matches may be purchased in advance today and Tuesday at the Miner & Carter Drug Company or the Piedmont Hatters.

Jockey in Race Meet Came to Visit Capone

By Jack Troy.

Charley Compton, who was born in Nashville, Tenn-O-See, and rode for Al Capone when he was the chief of all gangland, said last night his main reason for coming by Atlanta to ride in the Lakewood meeting was to see "the boss," now sojourning as a guest of the government at the federal penitentiary.

Compton is arranging for the necessary papers and hopes to see Capone Tuesday.

The small, dark-complexioned jockey will be up on Kai Finn, adjudged the best horse, in the third race at Lakewood this afternoon.

RODE GRAY LAG.

Compton made the young reporter feel like a babe in arms when he recalled having ridden Gray Lag home in feature races at Quebec. My, my how time does fly.

Raised around Cicero, old Capone hangout, Compton rode for Capone at Hawthorne, Washington Park and Lincoln field, in 1928 and 1929. He won the Canadian Derby in 1931. He was Canada's leading jockey in 1931-32.

"I was thrown out of employment when Capone, a grand guy, was sent to prison. The government sold his horses and I started out free-lancing. Since then I have ridden in Miami, New Orleans and on Canadian tracks.

"I can't see why they would send a guy like that to prison. He always did everything for his boys and a lot of folks around Cicero."

SINCERE.

There was no doubt about Compton's sincerity. His dark eyes flashed when he talked about what he considered was an injustice.

He thinks Capone is the "grandest guy in the world."

Compton is one of the better jockeys in the Lakewood meeting and he says there is no mistake about making Kai Finn the favorite in the third race.

ATLANTA CLUB GOOD MUDDERS AT MONTGOMERY

Hasty To Face Smokies in Opening Game Tuesday.

By Jimmy Jones.

Bearing with them the high hopes of an aroused populace and the far-famed "new deal," the Atlanta Crackers, 16 of them and their manager, Charley Moore, will board a train for Knoxville tonight and their opening game of the 1933 Southern league season with that ball club tomorrow.

In addition to the players and their youthful pilot, the Cracker party in toto is expected to include President Wilbert Robinson, Business Manager F. H. Roos and one of the club's directors, Hughes Spalding or Bobby Jones.

The Crackers, spirits buoyed by the 2-1 victory over Birmingham in a final pre-season test yesterday at Montgomery, returned to the city last night. The players will work out today at the ball park, then pack up for entraining at 6 p. m.

Unencumbered by the fact that any of the forecasters around the league have picked them to win a pennant and that they have not built up any appearances of a juggernaut in their spring games, the Crackers are expected to present a smoothly working, harmonious team, inspired to a maximum of effort by a young manager with a great record.

MOORE PLEASED.

Manager Moore expressed himself as being immensely pleased over the fact that his outfit had been picked to finish fourth in a canvass recently compiled over the league. He considers it a good sign in that his last pennant winner at Hartford, Conn., in 1931 was picked to finish last in the Eastern league. Yet it won the pennant by the largest percentage in the history of minor league ball. "We are not predicting a pennant; we will do our best to win every ball game and let the chips fall where they may," he says.

The Crackers have not presented a heavy-hitting aggregation. But to Moore hitting is not everything. He believes that many games are won by hustling for every point of vantage, base running, bunting and other forgotten arts of the old game. Moore, in many respects, is an old-fashioned manager.

Robert Kellar Hasty, the sentimental gentleman from Marietta, Ga., will be Moore's nomination for the starting pitcher at Knoxville. Andy Messenger, who beat Birmingham yesterday, will work here Thursday. The Atlanta Jaycees have inaugurated a tremendous drive for a crowd of 20,000 for the opening day here. It may not be that large, but it will be a good crowd.

REST OF LINEUP.

The rest of the Crackers' opening day lineup is expected to find Wally Dashiell leading off and playing second base; Pete Susko at first base; Red Rollings or Laskowski, third base; Art Weis, right field; Fred Sington, left field; Duck McKee, center field; Eddie Phillips, catching, and Buster Chatham playing short.

The Crackers have compiled a very good record in their exhibition games this spring, largely against big league and Class AA teams. Following are the results:

(At Biloxi and Mobile.)
Atlanta 8; Washington 4.
Atlanta 2; Washington 13.
Atlanta 14; Washington 11.
Atlanta 4; Washington 9.
Atlanta 1; New Orleans 7.
(At Montgomery, Ala.)
Atlanta 6; Minneapolis 3.
Atlanta 6; Minneapolis 3.
Atlanta 2; Birmingham 1.
(At Atlanta.)
Atlanta 4; Washington 3.
Atlanta 4; Washington 4. (6 innings, tie.)
Atlanta 5; Washington 11.
Atlanta 3; Cincinnati 6.
Atlanta 5; St. Louis Browns 7.
Atlanta 4; Detroit 7.
Atlanta 9; Columbus (AA) 4.
Atlanta 4; Oglethorpe U. 1.
Atlanta 5; Oglethorpe 3.
Total: Won 8; lost 8; tied 1.
(Three games also won against semi-pro teams.)

Crackers Beat Barons in Mud, 2-1.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 9.—With just enough of the stuff it takes to win tight ones, Atlanta's popular ball club breezed through with a 2-to-1 edge over Birmingham's young Barons in a pre-school thriller here this afternoon.

An early-morning downpour bogged the playing field but both clubs proved to be good mudders and played errorless ball to thrill 1,500 enthusiasts. Threatening skies up until 2 o'clock kept down the attendance.

Andy Messenger went the route and kept nine hits so well distributed after the first round that only one Baron collected more than one safety off his sinker service. Two unusual double plays and a third fast twin killing choked off Birmingham threats and maintained the speed of one of the fastest exhibition games ever played here. The athletes hustled through the mire in one hour and 28 minutes.

And both teams stayed in the ball game all the way, though the job of winning was left up to Duck McKee. He nicked one off Old Man Caldwell's curves for a triple, a smack that skimmed ear-high to deep right center and on a fast field his blow would have enabled him to tour the hassocks. This feature slam came in the sixth, followed by Neisler's loft to left that admitted McKee.

Sington hit safely twice, driving in the first Cracker score and he made seven putouts, three of them honeys and he figured in one of Atlanta's three double plays.

Reviewing the Shows

Story of Broadway Unfolded at Georgia

The glamorous story of the Broadway star whose radiant stage personality is built of sordid love affairs is presented in "Broadway Bad" at the Georgia theater this week until Wednesday. It has for stars Joan Blondell, Ricardo Cortez, Ginger Rogers and others of lesser magnitude.

A very good cast does well with this tale of a Broadway star who, press-agented as bad, still has for her only interest in life her little fair-haired four-year-old boy, the son of her divorced husband. Climaxes come when friend husband, failing in a blackmail scheme, attempts to take the child from her because she is an "unfit mother." You, the audience, will immediately perceive that Miss Blondell is really the fittest mother in the world, of course.

With many scenes of backstage life, "Broadway Bad" almost turns into a leg show, what with numerous dressing room shots and this and that. The director, whoever he may have been, had quite an eye for leg effects, we feel justified in saying. Miss Blondell is her usual breezy self and Miss Rogers and Adrienne Ames provide other talent. In our opinion, Miss Ames could handle much more sympathetic and important parts with ease.

W. C. Fields, in a short comedy he wrote himself, entitled "The Pharmacist," is very amusing.

Kay Francis, stately portrayer of sophisticated roles, and George Brent are featured in "The Keyhole," which plays three days at the Georgia beginning Wednesday. Without having seen "The Keyhole," we'd choose it as the better of the two features this week.

Cohen, Kelly Make Peace And Provide New Laughs

The Cohens and the Kellys are back with us at the Fox theater this week in a film entitled "The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble," and it is everything that its name implies. The picture is light comedy and much better than the usual Cohen-Kelly variety. It is crammed with sparkling wisecracks and just enough slapstick to make it more laughable without becoming rowdy.

George Sidney and Charlie Murray give their customary excellent portrayals of the Jew and the Irishman, but after six pictures in which they were co-starred, and fought their private little war bitterly, the public now finds them united under a personal flag of truce, against a belligerent world. No more do they claw, scratch and yell at each other about business, race, children or any other subject which might come up. They are now partners and not even a dirty look passes between them in the entire picture.

The picture has plenty of action, especially when an ex-wife of Kelly's swoops down on him and starts after unpaid alimony. The Saturday night audience liked the show, if their laughs prove anything. Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank Albertson furnish the love interest and Andy Devine provides some additional laughs.

The remainder of the bill is excellent, including a musical short featuring Walter Winchell and Paul Whiteman, a newsreel, Mickey Mouse, a travel talk on Holland, and the organ solo "When Day Is Done," by Jimmy Beers. The honors for this part of the program unquestionably go to Jimmy and to the Winchell-Whiteman musical. An entertaining program throughout.

Paramount's 'Ex-Lady' Is 'Delightfully Smart'

A delightfully smart motion picture, the Warner Brothers production of "Ex-Lady," starring personable Bette Davis, and Gene Raymond, is offered patrons of the Paramount theatre this week.

Miss Davis is profoundly convincing as Helen Bauer, an ultra-modern and successful young artist, who for a time believing that the menace of marital boredom can be eliminated by simply eliminating the marriage, substantiates her theory in a happy, full-time existence with Don Peterson, (Mr. Raymond), a not-overly successful advertising man. Peterson, though basically content with most any arrangement, intermittently suggests the formality of a wedding and ultimately there is a wedding.

With the new relationship, normal enemies of matrimonial felicity assert themselves in the forms of jealousy and business reversals, and then comes the separation. Regret and unhappiness, in the usual order of things, follow, as do frequent and near-fatal indiscretions.

Monroe Owsley is capable as the villain of the piece who is thwarted quite in the nick of time as he ardently campaigns to appropriate the disconsolate Mrs. Peterson.

The supporting cast includes Frank McHugh, Claire Dodd, Kay Strozzi, Ferdinand Gottschalk, and others.

A Gratland Rice Sportlight features the athletic antics of Miss Mildred "Babe" Didrikson, Olympic champion, Howard Martin, "The Whistling Usher," with Al Evans, offers "Stardust," and the customary short subjects, newsreel, etc., complete a well-balanced and most entertaining bill.

Special Show Wednesday Of 'King Kong' at Fox

The management of the Fox Theatre has announced a special advance showing of the big feature picture "King Kong," on Wednesday night of this week.

"King Kong" is the name of a huge ape which is some fifty feet tall, and who is, of course, the featured player in the picture. The adventures of a group of intrepid motion picture men who travel to a far island to photograph him, Kong's battles with mighty dinosaurs and other prehistoric animals, and the excitement caused when "Kong," after having been captured and brought to America, escapes and runs wild on Broadway, is the theme of the picture.

The special showing Wednesday night was brought about, Fox officials stated, in view of the tremendous interest evinced in the picture's arrival for its regular showing beginning Saturday, April 15. The advance preview will start at 11:30 p. m., and is scheduled as a performance entirely apart from the regular offering of the "Cohen's and Kellys in Trouble" that day. The price of admission will be increased for the "King Kong" show from 25c to 50 cents.

Already Reviewed.

"Perfect Understanding," feature picture that stars Gloria Swanson and now showing at Loew's Grand theater, was reviewed in The Constitution of Saturday. In addition to the feature there is a life story of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and other short subjects on the program.

"Too Busy to Work" with Will Rogers at the Rialto, was reviewed on an earlier showing some weeks ago.

Tarpley, Allen Fight at Fort Mac

Battling Chink Tarpley soldier welterweight who recently won over Battling Maddox meets Frankie Allen, Atlanta, in the main bout at the Service club at Fort McPherson tonight. Harry Kid Peck boxes Charley Brown in the semi-final. Battling Bozo meets Ken Osteen, of the Fort, in another eight rounder. An attractive program of preliminaries has been arranged.

Robby To Keep Up Rookie Rule Fight

Wilbert Robinson, president of the Crackers, has not given up his fight on the Southern league's rookie rule and rigid player limit, he revealed Saturday.

"John Martin will be here for our opening game Thursday and I intend speaking to him about it personally," Robby stated. The jovial head of the Crackers made a previous effort to get his fellow league moguls to join him in the rookie rule fight without success. It is his contention that a league as strong as the Southern needs no class rule and should allow clubs to carry at least one extra outfielder.

"It is silly to make the clubs cut their roster to 16 when everybody knows that they have extra players hanging around the park all season that are not on the roster," Robby declared.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Difficult Defense.

When a player in a Bridge game holds a Yarborough—that is, no card higher than a 9-spot—and one of his opponents is the Declarer, he is generally relieved from practically all responsibility for the defense, and thus is placed in a good postion to observe the relative skill of his partner and the Declarer in utilizing the attacking and defensive play of the cards.

In the hand below, which was played at contract of four spades, doubled, the burden of finding a method of defeating the contract rested wholly upon South, after his partner had made an Opening lead of the suit which he had bid and rebid.

East, Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♡	1♠	Pass
2♠	3♡	3♠	Pass
Pass	4♡	4♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

South realized that his bid of four hearts was possibly a slight overbid in view of his partner's persistent passing, but he also feared that his opponent could at least make a valuable part-score, which would be more than equivalent to any penalty he might take. When they reached the contract of four spades, he, of course, doubled to retain his self-respect.

The Opening lead was the heart 4, which South won with the King and returned the Ace, the Declarer winning with a trump. Two rounds of trumps were then led, the second being won in Dummy. This left North with one trump. A club was now led which South won, and he was brought face to face with the realization of the fact that defeating the contract would require the most accurate play. If West held all of the remaining trumps and North held the diamond Queen, an immediate diamond lead would be the only way to save the game; but if North held another tump, South could save the game by the remarkable play of first clearing the opponents' suit and then giving the Declarer a ruff and a discard.

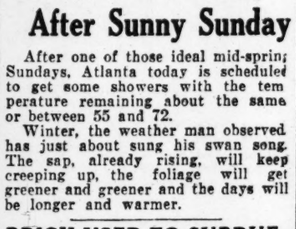

Fortunately, North, with his Yarborough, had aided the defense a little by showing that he had three trumps by first playing the 6 and then the 3. Guided by this and also by West's strong bidding, South therefore led the Ace of Clubs and returned a heart. The Declarer was "on the spot." It was useless to ruff a heart in the Dummy because the outstanding trump could not be drawn. If West ruffed in his own hand he could get but one diamond discard. This, of course, he did, and the contract was defeated 1 trick, due not only to brilliant defensive play by South but to proper trump play by North, which pointed the way to an unusual but safe defense.

The play of both opponents and Declarer was flawless. Each did the best with the cards he held.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

There is one chance in 635,200,000,000 that you may hold the hand below, or, in fact, any specific holding at the Bridge table, but if you did hold 13 spades and were Declarer, what would you bid?

South, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

The solution will be given in tomorrow's article.

AUNT MARTHA'S CORNER

FLAGSTONES.

Also called Pavement Blocks, and Improved Nine-Patch, this block is easy to do and gives a lovely effect. Using two different prints, or a plain color and white, a beautiful all-over tile effect results. The block is about 15 inches square, so it will not take overly many to make a quilt of average size and a double border adds to its beauty. Diagonal or criss-cross quilting would be pretty here—and quite simple to do.

Pattern No. C220, 15 cents, gives accurate cutting directions. Allow a week to 10 days for delivery. Clip and mail to Aunt Martha, care of The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Lillian Mae Patterns.

HERE ARE TWO MODELS IN ONE!
Pattern 2586.

Of the many clever ways fashion achieves the new silhouette, none is lovelier or smarter than using a graceful cape. With attention on the shoulders, hips melt into the merest shadow. And with the ensemble the last word in smartness, the cape will be detachable, to reveal an equally charming frock . . . and to create the illusion of a different dress—a step toward economy. The cape is outlined with ruffling, quaint and feminine, while the frock defines its waistline with chic seaming and a pert bow in back. Crepey silks or cottons would be most attractive.

Pattern 2586 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4 3-8 yards 39-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted.

Send for the Lillian Mae Fashion Book, showing Paris-inspired models for every sewing need—all practical and easy and economical to make. Models for the larger figure, junior and kiddie styles; lingerie and accessory patterns are also featured. Price of catalog, 15 cents.

Young Atlanta Artist In New York Contest

Owen Bugg, Atlanta high school artist, has entered the 1933 out-of-town scholarship competition of the Art Students League of New York city, held annually to select the 10 "most promising young artists" in the United States, it was announced Sunday. Bugg, who is 21 years of age, has entered several pictures in the contest.

A scholarship entitles the winner to a year of free study at the league and is open to artists outside the city of New York. Entrance in the competition closes at noon today. A scholarship was won last year by Wilbert Warren, of Atlanta.

Showers Due Today After Sunny Sunday

After one of those ideal mid-spring Sundays, Atlanta today is scheduled to get some showers with the temperature remaining about the same or between 55 and 72.

Winter, the weather man observed has just about sung his swan song. The sap, already rising, will keep creeping up, the foliage will get greener and greener and the days will be longer and warmer.

BRICK USED TO SUBDUE GROCERY STORE ROBBER

James Howard, 29, negro, of 8 Fair street address, was knocked down with bricks and captured early Sunday morning after he had broken into a grocery store at 657 Cooper street, according to reports to police.

Residents of the neighborhood saw Howard kick in the front glass and go into the building, they said. The negro got a small quantity of merchandise and started to leave. As he reached the street, witnesses threw bricks at him, knocking the negro to the ground. He was held for police. At the police station he was booked on suspicion.

MISHAPS IN SOUTH CLAIM 15 LIVES

Auto Accidents Kill 8; Little Rock Bank Official Dies.

By the Associated Press.

Fifteen persons died in the south's reported week-end accidents, automobile fatalities heading the list with eight.

Three persons were killed by train, three died in collision between trains and automobiles, and two drowned.

W. B. Miller, vice president of the Union Trust Company bank at Little Rock, was killed in an automobile accident near Vicksburg, Miss.

A grade crossing accident at Ashford, Ala., resulted in death to John Pate, 27; Sterling Hicks, 38, and Eddie Moss, 26, all of Ashford.

At Lonoke Ark., Trimble T. Goodrum, 41 was killed in an automobile accident. Two others were injured.

Job Gillis of McRae, Ga., was killed in the rear-end collision of two trucks near Baxley, Ga. Waldo Howell, Owen McEacher, of McRae, and James Lee, of Macon, were hurt.

Leonard Bennett, 17, was drowned at Miami. Melson Bacharn, 16, was killed in an automobile accident at Jacksonville Fla. Two companions were injured.

Three persons were hurt when a biplane crashed into the water 100 yards off Jacksonville (Fla.) Beach.

Joe Hunt, 19, was killed by a train at Salisbury, N. C.

Miss Irene Berry, 20, died in an automobile accident at High Point, North Carolina.

A freight train killed Randall Walker, 19, at Cordele, Ga., and Arthur McCord died in an automobile accident near Macon, Ga.

Charles Scott, 49, was killed when his automobile plunged into a water-filled canyon near Paducah, Ky., and W. T. Moon, 30, drowned when his boat capsized in a pond at Decatur, Alabama.

James Wiley, a negro, was killed by an automobile at Charlotte, N. C.

Lionel Dupree, 15, fell under the wheels of a train and was killed at Jonesboro, Ark.

Mrs. James Curtis To Change Home In Washington to Club for Friends

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Important-looking legal papers are about to incorporate a depression project extraordinary, making Mrs. James Freeman Curtis a club hostess in her beautiful 120-year-old home here.

She's the Mrs. Curtis of the Washington, New York and South Carolina society columns. Her hospitable Washington home has been a gathering place here of that inner circle of republicans to which the late Nicholas Longworth belonged. That tradition continued when it was leased for two years to former Representative Ruth Pratt.

Stimulating political chat and famous old southern dishes have been the fare at her garden dinners under magnolia trees.

And when Mrs. Curtis frankly announced she no longer could afford to go on living in her house, and would have to store her furniture, her intimate friends decided they "just couldn't give up 1925 F street."

So they started the club, to be patterned upon the Algonquin round table—primarily a place where there may be zestful political discussion over the luncheon and dinner table.

Mrs. Curtis is to be president, manager and hostess, making her actual residence in a smaller house next door which also belongs to her. George A. Garrett is vice epresident; Newbold Noyes, treasurer, and Mrs. Rose Wallach Merriam, secretary.

There's to be a board of governors, too, to plan for dinner-dances and gay parties galore.

From Middleburg, Va., where her hunting friends live, from New York and Philadelphia and Baltimore, the friends who once casually "dropped in" upon Mrs. Curtis are sending in applications for club reservations.

The formal opening has been set for next Saturday.

Pope's Faith in Triumph of Peace Is Expressed in Palm Sunday Talk

VATICAN CITY, April 9.—(AP)—A faith that the divine hand guiding the destiny of man will during the holy year bring peace to the world was expressed today by Pope Pius in receiving 180 employes of the Marconi Company in the Clementine hall.

His reception of the workers was the only public appearance of the day for his holiness. Meanwhile dozens of races and nationalities were represented at Palm Sunday services in St. Peter's, ushering in the most colorful holy week ceremonies the Roman Catholic church has held in more than three-score years.

The advancement of electricity, the pope said, is due to the guiding hand, which hence is responsible for the development of the "marvelous machines" of this age.

Pilgrims from the four corners of the world joined the devout of Rome in commemorating the nineteen hundredth anniversary of Christ's entry into Jerusalem. Joseph Louis Wei, Chinese schoolmaster, had come the whole distance from Singapore on foot.

Rome's great cathedrals of St. John Lateran, St. Paul's and St. Mary Major were crowded, while many of the holy year visitors chose to attend services in others of the ancient city's 400 churches.

The traditional palm branches, reminiscent of those the people of Jerusalem strewed in the path of Jesus as he rode into the city on an ass, were presented yesterday to the pope by a member of the Bresca family of Genoa.

In his eleventh year as a successor of Peter, Pope Pius has embarked upon an exceptionally strenuous period of work. Last month he presided over two consistories and eight days ago he inaugurated the holy year program that will demand his presence at numerous public ceremonies.

His holiness enjoys excellent health despite his nearly 76 years of age and the strain to which an extraordinarily active administration has put him.

Premier Mussolini, who shares with Pius the honor of having re-established happy church-state relations, has co-operated in the holy year program by granting a 50 to 70 per cent railroad fare reduction to pilgrims journeying to the fascist and Catholic capitals.

Decision on Cannon May Be Given Today

WASHINGTON, April 9.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, may learn from the supreme court tomorrow whether an indictment charging him with violation of the corrupt practices act is dead or alive.

The churchman, with his secretary, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, was charged with violating the act by failing to report contributions alleged to have been received by him in 1928 in his campaign against the election of Alfred E. Smith as president.

Close observers of the supreme court, which returns tomorrow from a two-week recess, consider it likely that the high tribunal will hand down its decision on the widely watched case.

The court has been asked to decide whether the government was right in asking the District of Columbia court of appeals to reverse the District supreme court in quashing the indictment as defective, or whether it should have appealed directly to the United States supreme court.

Park Avenue Raiders Halt High Stake Play

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—In one of the most fashionable apartment houses on Park avenue, police raided an alleged gambling hall before dawn today, took the names of a number of men and women in evening clothes and arrested three men.

The raiders reported finding roulette equipment, dice and chips marked at denominations from $25 to $2,500. The prisoners, who described themselves as salesmen, gave their names as Frank Brady, James Barrett and Arthur Reid, all of New York.

Detectives James Canavan and Joseph Magnus had been watching the place for a week. Saturday night they managed to gain admittance by telling the doorman they were sent by "Mr. Roberts, of Miami, Fla."

Ross Crane Opens School of Interior Decorations at Sterchi's Today

THREE 'LESSONS' WILL BE OFFERED BY NOTED EXPERT

Atlanta Women Invited To Learn Correct Building, Blending and Balancing of Color Effects.

Women of Atlanta are afforded a rare opportunity in hearing Ross Crane, of Chicago, world famous interior decorator, in a dramatization of home decorations at Sterchi's, 116-18-20 Whitehall street, at his School of Interior Decorations, which begins at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

A specially constructed room with raised elevation has been constructed on the fourth floor, where the school will be held, in order that the audience may have full view of every stage of development in the furnishing of a room.

In his school, Mr. Crane will use a new method of instruction, known as the "laboratory clinic" method. This is the newest way to learn interior decoration, which enables one to master the art of building color schemes, arrangement of furniture, getting balanced effects, etc., without study, effort or reading.

All the "student" will have to do is to watch a fascinating show—"hand-made moving pictures," someone calls them; but they are "talkies" as well—all staged by Mr. Crane, the originator of the method.

During his "show," Mr. Crane will build complete room settings, step by step, before the eyes of the "students," beginning with the three side walls erected on an elevated stage, introducing rugs, draperies, furniture, lamps, pictures and flowers; arranging and rearranging them, meanwhile explaining the reason for every move, until finally a lovely, colorful living room, complete to color scheme, apparently ready for human occupancy and breathing the atmosphere of a home, is revealed to the delighted onlookers.

Mr. Crane's subject for this afternoon's "show" will be "Creating a Color Scheme for a Living Room Facing South." On the stage before the eyes of his audience he will show what colors to use when green is the dominant note, and how to select accessory colors when rust is predominating.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. Crane will talk on "Twelve Devices for Getting Color, Beauty and Personality Into a Bedroom." Here he will demonstrate how he "warms up" a north or east bedroom by the clever use of color. He also will tell of another clever decorating idea—planning the bedroom so that it will complement one's complexion colors.

On Wednesday, Mr. Crane's offering will show "What $50 Will Do to Transform a Nondescript Living Room." Mr. Crane here will take a dull room with a three-piece suite and a rug of taupe, and transform it into a sparkling and charming interior, all on a budget of $50.

The public has been invited by Sterchi's to attend and bring notebooks. No charge will be made for the school or for consultations. In addition to his three "shows," Mr. Crane will remain at Sterchi's during the last three days of the week and will be available to all home-lovers for assistance in solving home decorations problems.

U. S. BONDS GAIN AS OTHERS FALL

German Issues in All Categories Register Decrease During Week.

By VICTOR EUBANK.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—The bond market ended a rather squally week with most sails in fairly good condition and only a few serious dents in its bowsprit.

Probably the most encouraging feature of the week was the quiet strength of United States government securities, most of which showed daily gains in the face of falling prices in some foreign groups.

The federal section as a whole deflected easier money conditions, progress of the administration's budgetary economies and the belief by most conservative banking quarters that currency inflation was remote.

The decline of German bonds was one of the retarding factors of hesitant trading. Reich issues of all categories slumped several points and most of them were unable to recover to any great extent.

Highest grade domestic utilities, industrials and rails displayed resistance, but there was considerable irregularity in the semi-speculative or secondary divisions.

This was particularly true of the carriers. Chicago & Northwestern Railway maturities, already in the ultra-low-price class, dropped 1 to 8 points.

Sentiment for Telephone, Oil and Rubber Company issues was somewhat better. Boldholders were cheered by reports of a pickup in some lines of trade and industry. A more optimistic view was also reflected by the return of hoarded funds to the banks and the improvement in banking conditions generally.

CHEVROLET REGISTER MARCH SALES GAIN

DETROIT Mich., April 8.—(UP) Retail sales of Chevrolet automobiles increased in March over the same month of 1932 despite the handicap of banking holidays, H. J. Klinger, vice president in charge of sales, revealed today.

Klinger said the company sold 34,716 automobiles in March of 1933, compared to 33,125 in the same month of 1932.

Chevrolet sales have made advances over the corresponding period of 1932 in each month this year, he said.

RAILWAY EMPLOYES STRIKE IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 10.—(Monday.)—(AP)—Employes of the Great Southern railway, which serves the Irish Free State, went on strike at midnight for higher wages.

A mass meeting of railwaymen here Sunday decided to repudiate a settlement already made between their union leaders and the railway company.

No trains left Dublin during the night. About 5,000 workers are involved.

It appeared likely that the entire railroad service in Ireland may be stopped later today.

CAPITAL HOLDS EYES OF TEXTILE INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, April 9.—During the past few weeks wide differences of opinion economically and industrially on many matters pertaining to the recovery of general business have been expressed. Even in national legislation there are measures pending which are quite opposite in results which they seek to accomplish—such as, for instance, the farm relief bill and the Black 30-hour bill. In the midst of such uncertainty it is well to analyze what has been accomplished in order to find what progress, if any, has been made.

Such a review reveals facts that indicate definite signs of improvement. We have had a remarkable recovery in the money markets and a substantial improvement in the banking structure of our country; electric power production shows a satisfactory increase after the decline during March; carloadings indicate a slow but steady recovery; February employment figures show a nominal increase over January and March figures will probably show a further improvement.

If there has been in the past in the textile industry—or in any branch of it—a feeling of indifference toward Washington and the legislative deliberations of congress, it would seem that this has now been displaced with an interest as intense as that of the old-fashioned revival meeting.

The uncertainties arising from pending legislation can not be better evidenced than in the diversity of the advices being transmitted through news letter channels as to the probable influence of these measures upon the future trends of business. Some believe that if the farm relief bill is modified to any considerable extent it will probably be vetoed; others feel that if it is passed in its original form no immediate demand will be made by the secretary of agriculture to bring commodity prices to the 1909-1913 level. If some assurance could be had along those lines, it would be a very welcome aid to industry.

As this letter is written, reports from Washington indicate that the Black 30-hour bill will not be passed immediately by the house, but that it will be adopted, with minor changes, within a few weeks. Anticipating the enactment of the Black bill, which will materially increase costs of production, we have followed for the past week the policy of making sales only for near-by delivery and at advancing prices. As the week closes a few mills have entirely withdrawn from the market.

Sales of print cloths have totaled a sizable yardage; substantial sales have been made of broadcloths and colored goods, while sheetings and drills have been in moderate demand. —Southeastern Cottons, Inc.

COTTON IMPROVES IN VOLUME, PRICE IN WEEK'S TRADE

Upward Trend Gives Staple Dollar a Bale Gain Despite Reactions in Closing Sessions.

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—(AP)—The cotton market during the past week showed some improvement not only in the volume of business but also in prices. There was increased trade buying, price-fixing and indications of some revival of speculation. Trading was also added to by liquidation of May, owing to the approach of the first notice day for tenders in that month. This liquidation took the shape of transfers from the near to the more distant positions, although toward the end of the period there was more outright liquidation.

The trend of prices was upward, although there were some reactions. The extreme spread of fluctuations was about 30 points, and owing to advances later in the week the close showed a net gain for the period of a shade over 20 points or about a dollar a bale. While there was a slightly easier tone earlier, the market later improved on news from Washington indicating a more decided drift toward inflation. This caused improvement in all commodity markets.

The market was also helped late in the week by reported delays to farm work and new crop preparations in the central and eastern portions of the belt caused by excessive rains. This had a tendency to modify acreage views notwithstanding private estimates of a proposed increase in acreage of 6 to 8 per cent. The prospect for the passage of the farm relief bill with the 30 per cent reduction in cotton production was also stimulating.

Demand for spot cotton showed a fair improvement, particularly toward the last part of the week due to the belief that inflation would cause higher prices. Exports were fairly good, and compared more favorably with the corresponding week last year. Stock on shipboard was light, however, pointing to light clearances during the coming week.

High, low and closing sales compared with a year ago, follow:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Last Year.
May	6.55	6.26	6.48	6.13
July	6.73	6.43	6.64	6.31
Oct.	6.95	6.64	6.85	6.54
Dec.	7.08	6.78	6.98	6.78
Jan.	7.06	6.90	7.06	6.81

GRAY GOODS DEMAND SPURS PRICE FIXING

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Influenced by more insistent talk of inflation and reports of a considerable pick-up in goods buying, the cotton market held to an upward course last week.

The base of the buying movement broadened considerably, with the trade continuing an important factor in the absorption of contracts.

Speculative buying from many sources was probably in direct response of persistent gossip to the effect that the administration had come to the conclusion that something must be done forthwith to raise the commodity price level. Net gains for the week were somewhat under $1 a bale.

Price fixing operations by spinners were said to be more active than for some time, largely as a result of an appreciably increased demand for gray goods at somewhat higher prices.

This buying appeared to be stimulated by some fears that enactment of the Black bill to regulate the hours of industrial labor would increase costs of cotton goods production.

The effect of this new element was to release demand which had previously been restricted by uncertainties connected with the processing tax proposals in the farm relief measure.

Aside from the inflation talk and the legislative factors, the market derived some inspiration from the cheerful tenor of certain of the commercial reviews. Cotton traders were particularly interested in the reports of expanding retail trade in textiles and apparel.

The week was featured by the appearance of a few acreage estimates, suggesting expectations of increases ranging from 6 per cent to 8 per cent over last year based on planting intentions as of late March.

Great Insurance Diversity Is Offered by Aetna Life

Sam M. Carson, General Agent, Lauds Benefits of Policies Designed To Protect in Old Age.

"There is no argument against the taking of life insurance. It is established that the protection of one's family, or those near to him, is the one thing most to be desired, and there is no medium of protection that is better than life insurance. Our government has given close attention to the insurance companies, and they are on so sure a foundation that it is in substance a guaranty method of protection for our people."
—The late President Calvin Coolidge.

Considering the diversified field of policy offerings and the increasingly convenient arrangement of premium rates, it is folly for the average man to be without life insurance or protection against the lean years of old age, according to Sam M. Carson, general agent of the Aetna Life Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn.

As one instance of the increasing variety of insurance which may be had, he points to the life income policy, which serves as a guarantee against financial dependence in one's later years.

"A man starts at 30 upon the productive years of his career," says Mr. Carson. "Behind him is his formative period—his school years, followed by the preparatory work in the field of his choosing. Ahead is a score of decisive years—working years—years of building.

"In these decisive years he should give serious thought to, and make plentiful provision for, the future. He should guarantee then his later freedom from financial worries—establish a worry-proof insurance program."

The Aetna life income policy, he points out, will provide a regular income to fortify against such financial worry in later years, when earning power suffers depreciation, making old age comfortable, carefree and independent."

Mr. Carson also calls attention to the life annuity, a plan self-managed and self-operated, requiring neither thought nor attention on the part of the policy-holder, which, he states, "will guarantee absolutely a high yield—unfailing uninterrupted, undiminished—as long as the insured person lives."

"That," adds Mr. Carson, "is the unique, specific mission of the annuity, and it does that job as no other form of investment possibly can. With future security made certain, one can look toward life's sunset years unafraid."

Because the annuity is one of the oldest forms of insurance, he says, its acceptance and popularity have been most pronounced during recent years. In the past five years, the number of new annuitants was almost double that of the preceding five years. Today, more than ever before, the annuity is accepted as the most convenient and certain protection against old-age dependence.

Mr. Carson points out that those who enjoy annuities, in most instances live longer, since they are released from financial worry and mental disquietude.

Another Aetna product in which Mr. Carson takes particular pride is the modified life policy, designed especially for the man who is on his way to a bigger job and who is now at that age when he must spend his dollars cautiously.

"If man is one of that class," he states, "if a convenient low-cost insurance appeals to him, and if he has the requisite qualifications, then this is a most satisfactory arrangement because, first, it offers, at the sixth and subsequent years that it is in force, adequate protection at a low rate, and, second because it is so adjusted that during the first five years the premiums will be only one-half the rate required thereafter, except for the several very young ages. It provides for the future of his loved ones, and also enables him to carry that additional insurance which, under one of the regular plans, might work a serious financial hardship upon him."

Briefs From the Business World

National Bellas Hess, Inc., reports gross sales of $1,490,631 for the first quarter of 1933, an increase of 25.2 per cent over volume in the last three months of 1932. The company began business last October 1 as successor to the old mail order house, National Bellas Hess Company.

Dividend meetings are scheduled for this week by General Foods Corporation, Continental Can, Kroger Grocery and Baking, Nash Motors, Owens-Illinois Glass, Procter & Gamble and Union Oil of California.

The Los Angeles plant of Firestone Tire and Rubber Company is prepared to reopen with the promise that its 800 employes will be back to work within 11 days. The plant has been closed since March 10, when it was damaged by the earthquake.

Orders are on hand sufficient to keep the Goodyear Rubber Company plant at Middletown, Conn. busy for the rest of the year, Harold S. Guy, president, announces. About 370 people are now employed.

H. F. Ernst, president of Prima Brewing Company, announces that a 24-hour day, seven-days-a-week operation policy will be followed in order to cope with the demand for beer.

Financing scheduled by 28 municipalities this week totals $5,058,085 compared with $4,279,019 in the last week. The largest offering is a $1,000,000 issue of Alameda county, California, relief bonds on Tuesday.

Residence construction in 37 states east of the Rocky mountains, increased 35 per cent last month over February, a statistical report of the F. W. Dodge Corporation said. The total was $16,021,000 as compared with $11,805,300 in February.

Setting a new record for the purchase of scrap iron in peace time, two Chicago car wrecking companies have bought 16,400 freight cars and 100 locomotives from the Southern railway. They expect to salvage 250,000 tons of steel. A West Virginia steel mill has already contracted for 80,000 tons of the scrap.

The Chicago-The Inland Steel Co., of Chicago, has doubled its activity at its Indiana Harbor (Ind.) plant. Increased orders have caused the operation of eight open hearth furnaces compared to only four in operation a few weeks ago.

Grigsby-Grunow Company's plant has increased its employment from 1,000 at the end of the banking moratorium to 2,500 it was announced by J. F. Ditzell, assistant vice president.

The Empire Trust Company of New York reports first quarter earnings exceeded dividend requirements by approximately $100,000.

The DeSoto Motor Company reports its retail deliveries last week the largest in nine months, with a total of 1,296 cars.

The Kelvinator Corporation has resumed a full factory schedule of 5 1-2 days a week, and reports "orders since the bank holiday show a 10 per cent increase over the same period in 1932."

Heavy engineering construction awards last week totaled $17,256,000 compared with $11,994,000 in the previous week and an average of $11,743,000 for the past four weeks, the Engineering News-Record reports.

Trade estimates put the gain to the 25,000,000 ton world sugar crop at nearly $100,000,000 since the new administration began in Washington. The calculations were based on an increase of $5,500,000 in value to the world crop with each 1-point advance in raw sugar.

General Motors reports Chevrolet production at 148,336 units for the first quarter of 1933. Production for the period last year was 133,363 units.

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, chain store operators, announced it closed its fiscal year February 25 in the strongest financial position in its history, despite sales and net profit declines from adverse business conditions. Cash and government securities held totaled $99,084,683 or $8,535,988 above the previous record level of a year before. The total was more than double the value of holdings at the close of 1929.

The Missouri Pacific Lines have recalled 734 workers to the Little Rock (Ark.) division shops.

The Chrysler Corporation announces a record production schedule by its Plymouth division to fill sharply increased orders.

The Oil and Gas Journal has published figures showing a substantial increase in oil production in the Texas fields was responsible for the 315,601 barrel average daily increase for the country for the week ending April 1 as compared with the previous week.

Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker Sales Corporation of America, announced retail deliveries of Studebaker and Rockne automobiles during the 10 days ending March 31 exceeded all previous similar periods since June, 1932. During the 10-day period a total of 1,758 cars were delivered to new retail purchasers.

W. Howard Cox, president of the Union Central Life Insurance Company, reported that March sales of paid-for life insurance increased 8.7 per cent over the preceding month and were 2.6 per cent above January.

Breweries of Milwaukee and other Wisconsin cities will put 25,000 people to work, when beer becomes legal, Governor Albert G. Schmedeman states.

The Silk Association of America, Inc., announced an increase of 8.3 per cent in February yardage sales of broad silks as compared with the same month last year.

The Forest City Brewing Company, of Cleveland, has announced letting of contracts for $400,000 worth of new equipment.

The United Engineering and Foundry Company at Youngstown, has announced a 5 per cent increase in operations. The plant is now operating 20 per cent of capacity.

The McClintic-Marshall Company has received an order for 10,000 tons of structural steel for the New York city-federal courthouse.

Large Increase Shown By Union Central Life

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 9.—The Atlanta agency of the Union Central Life Insurance Company, managed by T. H. Daniel, general agent, showed an increase of 42 per cent in paid-for business for the first quarter of 1933 over the corresponding quarter of 1932, according to an announcement made by W. Howard Cox, president of the Union Central Life of Cincinnati.

INDUSTRIALS, OILS LEAD CURB TRADE

Stocks Influenced by Higher Commodity Prices in Brisk Demand.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Speculative interest on the curb market has switched to industrial and oil shares recently, leaving the utilities quiet.

Trading last week developed a fairly brisk demand for a number of stocks that might be expected to benefit by stronger commodity prices. This was especially true of companies which have large inventories. Oils came forward in later sessions as prospects for control of production became brighter.

Aluminum of America found the support better and had an extreme rise of 5 points or so. New York Shipbuilding came to life with an advance of 3 points. Pan-American Airways was another strong spot.

Gulf led the petroleum group with an advance well across 30 to a new high for the year.

Mining issues improved, especially those in the gold division.

The movement in utility common shares was narrow. Columbia Gas preferred had an 8-point tumble, but got back part of the loss.

Mussolini Speaks.

ROME, April 9.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today told an Argentine trade mission that "the Italian and Argentine peoples are bound by ties much closer than ordinary diplomatic relations." He spoke at a state dinner at the Palazzo Venezia in honor of the visitors.

LEGALIZED BEER SPURS BUSINESS TO IMPROVEMENT

Spring Weather and Nearing of Easter Also Prove Buoyant Factors as Industry Shows Gains.

By HIRAM HERTELL.

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—The emotional and practical lift of beer, coinciding with improved weather and the approach of Easter furnished the background, for fresh business optimism during the past week.

While it was still too early to measure the enduring results of the 3.2 legislation, reports from many cities indicated that the foaming seidel had an immediate and favorable effect on employment and manufacturing in those lines supplying the brewing and affiliated lines.

Business as a whole, while naturally spotty, appeared to have returned to about the level prior to the banking holiday.

The most significant recoveries during the past week were shown in the statistics indicating a more than seasonal improvement in freight traffic and steel production.

Carloadings, as reported for the week ended April 1, stood at 494,588 cars, an increase of 18,738 cars over the previous week. While this represented a drop of 9.2 per cent below the corresponding period a year ago, the report is encouraging in that the preceding week showed a decline of 15.1 per cent under last year.

A broadening consumption in miscellaneous manufacturing industries, and to a greater extent by automobile makers, has increased steel production 2 points to 17 1-2 per cent of capacity, according to the magazine Steel.

Electric power production, amounting to 1,402,142,000 kilowatt hours, for the week of April 1, was off slightly from the preceding seven days, but in certain aspects the showing was favorable.

Retail sales throughout the country reflected the spur of improved weather and the pre-Easter demand.

As a whole sales during the past seven days made the best showing since September, according to Dun and Bradstreet.

One of the outstanding current developments is the enlarged demand for the more expensive items of merchandise. Trade reviews maintain that the buying of luxury goods provides conclusive evidence that shoppers believe that present prices may not be available again for a long time.

Kenneth Croan, Sierra Madre (Cal.) schoolboy, was sentenced to polish the firetruck for breaking an ordinance prohibiting following fire apparatus too closely.

JOHN WANAMAKER, the great Merchant Prince, was in his day the most heavily insured man in the world. It was largely through the help of his huge life insurance holdings that he was enabled to start construction of his Philadelphia store when he did.

"Some years ago," said Mr. Wanamaker, "I had a capital of about a half million dollars. I then realized that a business man with a half million of capital and a million and a half of insurance on his life would have better credit than one with a half million capital and no insurance—so I took the insurance.

"I now find that, trading on the credit it created, I made more profit than if the money which went into insurance had gone directly into my business."

TARZAN THE APE MAN No. 13

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

When her father announced he considered it too dangerous for Jean to accompany the safari on its search for the elephants' graveyard, the girl pleaded: "Too dangerous! Isn't that marvelous! Mr. Holt—please explain what a good idea it is that I should come with you."

"I think it's a good idea for us but not so good for you," answered that young man. "Oh, if it's ME you're thinking of, it's settled!" Jean replied. "Oh, Jean," her father protested, "It's impossible. You must know that." "I don't, she insisted. "Mr. Holt, I know you'll understand. I want to go—so terribly!"

Jean followed her words with an imploring look that completely won Holt. He answered: "Well, personally, I think if she wants to go as much as all that, she won't be a hindrance." And was rewarded by Jean's: "You are probably the nicest man I ever met!"

"Anybody's nice when they give in to you," grumbled her father. Jean rushed over to him and threw her arms around his neck. "You disagreeable old darling—I'm mad about you," she laughed. "Here, leave me alone—I'm not used to this," he muttered. "You'll have to put up with it," whispered Jean.

Hit by Motorcycle, Girl, 6, Badly Hurt

Struck by a hit-and-run motorcycle, Annie Henley, 6, of 420 Piedmont avenue, was treated at Grady hospital Sunday for severe bruises and lacerations. She was hit by the motorcycle of Amos Hudgins, negro, of 955 Frank street, a delivery boy, who later was arrested for leaving the scene of an accident and reckless riding of a motorcycle. The accident occurred at Piedmont avenue and Tenth street.

Other persons treated at Grady hospital during the day were:

Charles E. Thompson, 36, of 1456 LaFrance street, severe head injuries received in fall.

Toney Rivers, 3, of St. Paul avenue, Carey Park, left arm fractured.

Mrs. C. H. Garrett, 23, of 39 Meadows avenue, treated for poison and dismissed.

Earl Martin, 3, of 353 Woodward avenue, eye injured when hit with rock.

NEGRO SHOT, ARRESTED IN ROW OVER 60 CENTS

Sam Long, 21-year-old negro, was shot in the ankle and arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct Sunday after a quarrel over 60 cents, according to police reports.

Long, employed at the sandwich shop of Roy Gardner, at 779 Spring street, was shot by Gardner, it was said. The proprietor said he found Long 60 cents short in his accounts and took the sum from his pay, whereupon Long attempted to beat up another negro whom he accused of telling Gardner of the alleged shortage. When Gardner sought to interfere, Long attacked him, he said. Long was taken to Grady hospital and later arrested.

HITLER SYMPATHIZER 'BOOED' IN DETROIT

DETROIT, April 9.—(AP)—A score of police, responding to a riot call, maintained order during the latter part of a meeting at which the policies of Chancellor Hitler in Germany were explained today.

A chorus of "booes" arose at the mention of former Kaiser Wilhelm by Heinz Spanknoebel, head of an organization of Hitler sympathizers in the United States. That started the disorder in which ushers, trying to restore quiet, were getting the worst of it when the police arrived.

CHICAGO WILL SPEED NAMING OF MAYOR

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—Officialdom, prodded by parading unpaid school teachers, today pushed plans to select a bona fide mayor for the nation's second city before the end of the week.

Frank Corr, mayor pro tem., three times has seen irate school teachers desert text books, take up placards, and march through the loop to storm his office demanding some of their $28,000,000 in unpaid salaries. Students staged a short-lived sympathy strike.

Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton has held that the signature of Corr on tax anticipation warrants and other papers necessary to meeting pay rolls is invalid. Corr was named mayor pro tem. by the city council a few days after Mayor Anton Cermak was fatally wounded by an assassin's bullet at Miami, Fla.

BALCHEN CROSSES U. S. IN TEST OF POLE PLANE

HASBROUCK HEIGHTS, N. J., April 9.—(AP)—Bert Balchen, former member of the Byrd antarctic expedition, landed at Teterboro airport this afternoon from Kansas City, completing his cross-country flight with the monoplane which he plans to take on a second trip to the south pole.

Balchen was accompanied by his mechanic, and made the trip from Kansas City in 5 hours and 35 minutes. With good flying conditions the trip was made without difficulty.

Balchen will join the Lincoln Ellsworth trans-antarctic expedition. He set his ship down at the airport at 3:15 p. m., attendants said.

HI-JACKERS OF BEER GIVEN U. S. WARNING

CHICAGO, April 9.—(AP)—Beer hijackers tonight were warned that robbery of an interstate shipment of the brew constituted violation of federal laws and that the national government would be active in prosecutions.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green said that his office would make an investigation of the hi-jacking yesterday of a truckload of beer from Milwaukee and consigned to Chicago. The driver of the truck was kidnaped in Lake county, Illinois, and later released after his beer truck was unloaded.

"The robbery of interstate shipments," Green said, "is a federal offense and will be prosecuted under federal laws. We will investigate and prosecute when arrests are made, all hi-jacking cases coming within federal jurisdiction."

U. S. Jews Ask League For Race Homeland

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—The administrative committee of the Zionist organization of America decided today to appeal to the League of Nations and the United States to undertake a comprehensive plan for the settlement of Jews in Palestine.

"The tragic occurrences in Germany," the committee said in a statement, "serve to place the Jewish problem in its specific aspect as an international question upon the agenda for immediate consideration. The new German government, disregarding constitutional rights of individuals and of groups, deliberately and without shame has adopted a relentless policy of depriving its Jewish citizens of all classes of their fundamental civic, political and economic rights.

"Thousands of expatriated Jews clutter the highways of Europe, presenting a spectacle of human suffering shocking to humanity and civilization. These conditions of mass despair and hopelessness, affecting countless Jews, must receive the immediate attention not only of organized Jewry but also of every civilized nation imbued with feelings of humanity.

"Since the disturbing problem is not of Jewish making and it affects the life of all nations, this is a matter which demands international action."

Details of the plan have not yet been completed.

GOVERNOR OF VIRGINIA HONORED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Governor Garland Pollard, of Virginia, pleaded today for an enlargement of Thomas Jefferson's doctrine of religious freedom, declaring these "still remains today in all its cruelty a tyranny which proscribes, ostracizes, denounces and condemns men who dare to think for themselves."

Governor Pollard, in accepting a medal awarded him by the Thomas Jefferson lodge of the Free Sons of Israel for his adherence to the Jeffersonian principles, declared that "to the minds of some, religious liberty means liberty to Christians only and to other religions simply toleration."

NEW YORK, April 9.—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Woodin announced here tonight the completion of an arrangement by which the assets of the closed Harriman National Bank & Trust Company will be taken over by the Manufacturers Trust Company, as agent of the treasury department, and the depositors paid in full.

Armed Men Dynamite Levee in Mississippi

TIPPO, Miss., April 9.—(AP)—Thirty armed men, some of them masked, overpowered guards at Mathew's bayou, two miles west of here, last night, and dynamited the levee. Timing their arrival at the shift of day and night staffs of guards, the men rowed up in boats and relieved the guards of their guns. They then placed nine cases of dynamite on the levee and fired it.

"We want relief and we mean business," the guards said the men told them. "If this crevasse is fixed, we will dynamite it again."

No immediate estimate of the area that might be flooded was available.

200 DOCTORS ATTEND TUSKEGEE SERVICES

TUSKEGEE, Ala., April 9.—(AP)—Nearly 200 physicians from all sections of the country, assembled here for the annual clinic in connection with the celebration of the 53d anniversary of the founding of Tuskegee institute, took part today in a memorial service for Booker T. Washington, founder.

A eulogy of Dr. Washington was delivered by President Arthur Howe, of Hampton Institute. "The most striking thing about Dr. Washington," the speaker said, "is the way he has grown with the years. First most people thought of him as having lifted the veil from the eyes of the ignorant youth of his race. Now we know that he not only did that, but that he gave a new vision to all mankind."

Several New Yorkers, members of the institute's board of trustees, were present, among them Dr. W. J. Schieffelin, Dr. W. G. Crump, A. B. Siegel, Mrs. W. G. Wilcox, Mrs. Charles E. Mason and Mrs. W. N. Scott. Other visitors included Thomas E. Kilby, former governor of Alabama, and Mrs. Kilby.

The clinic, which will open tomorrow to last through the week, is an annual event at Tuskegee Institute.

FLORIDA LEGISLATORS BACK AT WORK TODAY

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 9.—(AP)—Florida legislators will return to their desks tomorrow for renewed study of state economy and the scores of other problems confronting them since the 24th biennial legislature opened last week.

Prime among the matters to be considered, introduced last week among the more than 300 measures presented in the senate and house, is a beer bill and a group of bills placed in legislative hoppers at request of Governor Dave Sholtz.

A bill to legalize 3.2 per cent beer and wines was on the house calendar, after receiving favorable report by the body's prohibition committee.
